DENOUNCED BY GREEKS

Lusitania Crime Causes Extreme Indignation in Country—German Mystery Is Pointed To

LONDON, May 10.—A Reuter dispatch from Athens says that the torpedoing of the Lusitania has aroused profound indignation throughout Greece. The newspaper Hestia says:

"This German crime affords an appropriate commentary on the German accusations of cruelty alleged to have been perpetrated by Russian troops in East Prussia. While undertaking to give lessons on the principles of humanity to others, they themselves commit the greatest crimes against humanity."

Barring Albion

LIVERPOOL, May 10.—The board of directors of the Cotton Association passed a resolution today setting forth that no naturalized German or Austrian henceforth shall be permitted to enter the cotton exchange.

Canadian Pacific Dividend

MONTREAL, May 10.—At a meeting of the directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, held today, a dividend of 2½ per cent on the common stock for the quarter ended March 31 last, being at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from revenue and 2 per cent from special income account, was declared payable June 30 next, to shareholders of record at 3 p.m. on June 1 next.

TWO VICTORIANS DIE OF WOUNDS

Corporal Forester and Private Leslie Hill Give Lives for Empire's Cause—Others on Wounded List.

In the official lists of casualties issued by the Department of Militia, appear the following names of interest to Victorians:

Died of Wounds

Corpl. E. H. G. Forrester,
Pte. Leslie Hill,

Wounded

Pte. Sidney Woodman.
Pte. N. B. Royds.

Corporal E. Hamilton Graham Forester, died of wounds, was well known in this city as the son of Mr. Graham Forester, of Bowlsby Place. While a resident of Victoria he was prominent in athletic circles, being a member of the J. B. A. A., and the Victoria Welsh Rugby team, with which he played for some time. He was born at Swansea, South Wales, 26 years ago, and was educated as Hastings, Sussex. Prior to coming to this country, he lived in South Africa for a number of years. He arrived in Victoria about seven years ago, making his headquarters at Vancouver, but frequently making visits to the capital, where his family lives. In Vancouver he was closely identified with the sport of the city, and had many friends there. For four years he was with the Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles, and joined the 7th Battalion as a member of that unit, enlistering shortly after the outbreak of war. He left with the First Canadian Contingent. He was one of the regiment's best marksmen, and won many trophies at shooting competitions, in which he was keenly interested. He leaves a father and mother, four sisters, and a brother, the latter in the 48th Regiment.

Private Leslie Brownlow Hill, died of wounds, was born at Portland Place, London, 26 years ago. He received his education at Margate College, England. He served a short term with the 1st Battalion of the North Staffordshire Regiment, and also in the Royal Navy. Having received his discharge, he removed to Canada three and a half years ago, spending nearly a year in Manitoba. He returned home to England, and accompanied his parents West, settling in Victoria in 1913. He joined the 50th Highlanders shortly before the outbreak of war on June 12, and left for the front with the First Canadian Contingent. His mother, Mrs. J. F. Johnson, resides at 630 Battery Street.

Pte. Sidney Woodman, wounded, was a resident of Victoria for a considerable time, during which he made many friends. He was a native of New Zealand, and came to British Columbia for the purpose of working on a relative's ranch. In Victoria, he boarded for over a year at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. While here he was employed at the Hecla Heating Company, Bay Street, as a tinsmith apprentice. Later, he became a member of the janitor staff of the Empress Hotel, where he remained until the outbreak of war. He volunteered with the 88th Regiment in August, and left for the front with the First Canadian Contingent. He was a member of the boy's division of the Y. M. C. A., and was prominent in swimming circles of the city, being one of Victoria's best young swimmers. He is about 20 years of age.

Pte. Royds, killed in action, was a former resident of Victoria, but left here some years ago, when he was seven years of age for Vancouver. His father is Captain Royds, R. N., who is now living near Chilliwack in retirement, and who at one time was aide-de-camp to Admiral Sir Derek Keppel. Pte. Royds was a nephew of Mr. Percy Wollaston, of this city.

To the Citizens of Victoria

MONDAY, MAY 10TH, 1915.

The undersigned hereby requests all residents of Victoria to remain in their homes or places of business tonight and on subsequent nights until regular excitement has abated. While no further demonstrations are anticipated, the absence of crowds from the streets will greatly facilitate the efforts of the police to prevent disorder, should it appear that any is likely to occur.

JURY RETURNS MURDER VERDICT

Proceedings at Coroner's Inquest on Bodies of Lusitania Victims Held at Kinsale, Ireland.

INTERNATIONAL LAW WAS DISREGARDED

Captain Turner's Evidence in Regard to Speed and Outlook—Question as to Warning of Attack.

KINSALE, Ireland, May 10.—The verdict rendered by the coroner's jury which investigated the deaths resulting from the torpedoing of the Lusitania follows:

"We find that the deceased met death from prolonged immersion and exposure in the sea eight miles southsouthwest of Old Head of Kinsale, on Friday, May 7, 1915, owing to the sinking of the Lusitania by torpedoes fired by a German submarine.

"We find that this appalling crime was committed contrary to international law and the conventions of all civilized nations.

"We also charge the officers of said submarine and the German Emperor and Government of Germany, under whose orders they acted, with the crime of wholesale murder before the tribunal of the civilized world.

"We desire to express sincere condolences and sympathy with the relatives of the deceased, the Cunard Company and the United States, many of whose citizens perished in this murderous attack on an unarmed liner."

Coroner Horgan said that the first torpedo fired by the German submarine did serious damage to the Lusitania, but that not satisfied with this, the Germans had discharged another torpedo. The second torpedo, he said, must have been more deadly, because it went right through the ship, hastening the work of destruction. The characteristic courage of the Irish and British people were manifested at the time of this terrible disaster, the coroner continued, and there was no panic. He charged that the responsibility "lay on the German Government, and the whole people who collaborated in this terrible crime."

"I propose to ask the jury," he continued, "to return the only verdict possible for a self-respecting jury, that the men in charge of the German submarine were guilty of wilful murder."

Ship's butler Livermore testified that the watertight compartments were closed, but that the explosion and the force of water must have burst them open. He said all the officers were at their posts, and that early arrivals of rescue boats would not have saved the situation.

Capt. Turner's Testimony

Capt. Turner testified briefly. The Coroner asked him:

"You were aware threats had been made that the ship would be torpedoed?"

"We were," the captain replied.

"Was she armed?"

"No sir."

"What precautions did you take?"

"We had all the lifeboats swung when we came within the danger zone between the passing of Fastnet and the time of the accident."

"I also gave orders to stop the ship," Capt. Turner continued, "but we could not stop. We found that the engines were out of commission. It was not safe to lower boats until the speed was off the vessel. As a matter of fact there was a perceptible headway on her up to the time she went down.

"When she was struck she listed to starboard. I stood on the bridge when she sank, and the Lusitania went down under me. She floated about eighteen minutes after the torpedo struck her. My watch stopped at 2:36. I was picked up from among the wreckage and afterwards was brought aboard a trawler.

"No warship was convoying us. I saw no warship and none was reported to me as having been seen. At the time I was picked up I noticed bodies floating on the surface, but saw no living persons."

"Eighteen knots was not the normal speed of the Lusitania, was it?"

"At ordinary times," replied Captain Turner, "she could make 25 knots, but in war time her speed was reduced to 21 knots. My reason for going 18 knots was that I wanted to arrive at Liverpool bar without stopping and within two or three hours of high water."

Double Lookouts

"Was there a lookout kept for submarines, having regard to previous warnings?"

"Yes, we had double lookouts."

"Were you going a zigzag course at the moment the torpedoing took place?"

No; it was bright weather, and land was clearly visible."

"Was it possible for a submarine to approach without being seen?"

"Oh, yes; quite possible."

"Something has been said regarding the impossibility of launching the boats on the port side."

"Yes," said Captain Turner, "owing to the listing of the ship."

"How many boats were launched safely?"

"I cannot say."

"Were any special orders given that morning that lifeboats be put out?"

"No."

"Was any warning given you before you were torpedoed?"

"None whatever. It was suddenly done and finished."

"If there had been a patrol boat around, might it have been of assistance?"

"It might; but it is one of those things one never knows."

With regard to the threats against his ship, Captain Turner said he saw nothing except what appeared in the New York papers the day before the Lusitania sailed. He had never heard the passengers talking about the threats, he said.

"Was a warning given to the lower deck after the ship had been struck?" Captain Turner was asked.

"All the passengers must have heard the explosion," replied Captain Turner.

Captain Turner, in answer to another question said he had received no report from the lookout before the torpedo struck the Lusitania.

After physicians had testified that the victims had met death through prolonged immersion and exhaustion, the coroner summed up the case and the jury brought in its verdict.

TEUTONS MAKE SOME ADVANCE

Succeed in Crossing Upper Part of Wisloka River, in Galicia — Germans Driven Back in Courland Country.

PETROGRAD, May 10.—The following official communication was issued by general headquarters tonight:

"In the region of Shavli (Kovno) yesterday our offensive continued with success on a broad front. A Bavarian cavalry division, supported by an infantry regiment of Prussian Guards, which had surrounded on the east our troops operating in the direction of Kaydany and Beslagola (Courland), was successfully attacked in the vicinity of Jeymi station by our cavalry, which on the night of the ninth pursued the enemy without intermission for several dozen verats (a verst is about two-thirds of a mile).

"On the left bank of the Niemen and on the front of the Narew there has been a complete lull. On the left of the Vistula we repulsed an enemy attack at the mouth of the Nida.

"In Western Galicia on May 8 and 9 the fighting was chiefly on the Valpole-Novotanec front. After a desperate engagement the enemy succeeded in the region of Krosno in crossing the upper part of the Wisloka River.

"In the actions of the last week we took as prisoners several thousand unwounded Germans and Austrians. The total number has not yet been verified."

The following official statement from the headquarters of the army of the Caucasus was issued:

"In the direction of Olti our troops have dislodged the Turks from their position and have driven them back to the southwest. In their hurried retreat the Turks abandoned a large quantity of tents and munitions.

"In the direction of Tabris the Turks have been driven from South Pass, and we occupied the village there."

Withdrawal at Dukla

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Col. Golejewski, military attache of the Russian Embassy here, issued the following statement tonight:

"During the last week of April very considerable Austro-German forces assumed the offensive between the Vistula and the East Beskid range of the Carpathians.

"Supported by considerable heavy artillery, the Austro-Germans, after a stubborn resistance by our troops, on the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth day of May, succeeded in crossing the River Dunajec and in establishing themselves between the latter and the River Wisloka.

"The main Austro-German attack was developed in the direction of Tuchow-Biecse-Jasle, which for a time threatened the flank of some of our detachments to the southwest of Dukla.

"These troops, consisting of the 48th Division, commanded by Gen. Kerniloff, after desperate bayonet fighting, cut their way through the enemy and rejoined their corps on May 7.

"The result of the enemy's advance is: The withdrawal of the right flank of our forces in Galicia for a distance of about thirty miles, and the re-crossing of one of our divisions from the Hungarian slope of the Carpathians into Western Galicia. The rest of our line in the Carpathians, as well as in the trans-Caspian region, is being maintained without any changes."

ALLIES MEETING WITH SUCCESS

British Advance in the Neighborhood of Fromelles and French Take Ground From Enemy North of Arras.

SEVERAL GERMAN ATTACKS REPULSED

Heavy Losses Inflicted and Some Prisoners Captured—Vigorous Artillery Exchanges at Several Points.

LONDON, May 10.—Field Marshal Sir John French, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces on the continent, reports no change in the general situation today.

"Our line to the east of Ypres, in spite of repeated attacks by the enemy, is substantially the same as that to which we withdrew on the night of May 3-4," he says in his report to the War Office. "During the fighting in this quarter yesterday the enemy made five unsuccessful attacks, and his losses in these failures were very heavy. On the front of the first army the fighting today has been confined to artillery action."

The Commander-in-Chief in his report yesterday said:

"Last night the enemy continued his attacks east of Ypres and made further attacks today, all of which have been repulsed with heavy losses. Our line there is firmly established.

"This morning our first army attacked the enemy's lines between Bois Grenier and Festubert, and gained ground south and east toward Fromelles. The fighting in this area continues.

"Our airmen made successful attacks on the St. Andre railway junction, north of Lille, and the canal bridges at Don, Furnes, Hurlue, Illies, Marquelles and La Bassee also were bombed."

Further Successes

PARIS, May 10.—The following communication was issued by the War Office tonight:

"To the north of Arras, in spite of several German counter attacks, we have maintained all our gain of yesterday, and we have enlarged it at certain points, notably between Carency and Souchez.

"Our success is developing. The total number of prisoners at three o'clock today exceed 300. Among these were about forty officers, including a colonel.

"We have captured in the last two days more than ten cannon and fifteen machine guns. At Berry-au-Bac a German attack has been repulsed, as well as one in the forest of Le Pretre."

The earlier report follows:

"Three new German attacks to the north of Lombaertzyde were repulsed yesterday.

"To the east of St. George's our marine fusiliers took possession of the Union Farm, very strongly fortified by the Germans, and also of a position farther to the east. They made about thirty prisoners.

"Dunkirk was bombarded again this morning at about 6 o'clock, two shells being thrown.

"In the region to the north of Arras we have maintained all the important gains reported in the communication of yesterday evening.

"Along the rest of the front, particularly in the Argonne and in Alsace, at Hilsakerwassen, there was a continuation of the artillery fighting."

In last night's communication it was stated:

"To the north of Arras we made important progress and also in the direction of Loos and to the south of Carency. In the latter sector we captured at some places two and at other places three lines of trenches, extending over a front of seven kilometres (about four and one-third miles), which were fortified very strongly.

"We have established ourselves in the village of La Targette and in half of the village of Neuville-St. Vaast. The conquered ground at some places is four kilometres (about two and a half miles) in width. We took more than 3,000 prisoners and six cannon.

American Residents of Toronto Call for Intervention of Their Country Because of Lusitania Outrage

TORONTO, May 10.—United States citizens residing in Toronto are profoundly indignant over the deliberate sinking of the steamship Lusitania by the Germans. At a meeting held in the American Club here last night they unanimously ordered a resolution to be sent to President Wilson of the United States, protesting against "the most outrageous crime ever committed by a supposedly civilized and Christianized nation," and calling upon President Wilson and his advisers to adopt such measures as by them shall be deemed advisable in giving to the Allies such assistance as shall tend to bring to a speedy end the war in which they are now engaged." The resolution also expressed best wishes for the Allied arms.

Announcement

In view of the recent demonstrations of violence, we wish to inform the public that this business is, and has for several years been owned and operated entirely by British capital.

Our local record in public matters and upon all questions of loyalty, should make unnecessary any public statement upon the subject, but to emphasize the position, we would point out that Mr. W. P. Geoghegan, of Dublin, Ireland—our chief shareholder—is at the present time providing accommodation, medical and nursing attention for wounded British soldiers entirely at his own expense, and letters received from him at recent dates contain expressions of the most earnest loyalty and desires for the success of the just cause of the Allies.

In these circumstances, we feel sure that the attack upon our premises was due to a lack of knowledge of the true facts of the position, and will be recognized as an injustice which will not be repeated.

NO PRECAUTIONS AGAINST DANGER

Lusitania Was Run at Slow Speed Through Waters Known to Be Frequented by German Submarines.

LONDON, May 10.—Survivors of the Lusitania arriving in London yesterday from Queenstown told some of their tragic experiences. They forcibly expressed the opinion that the Lusitania was badly handled in being run into waters where it was known that submarines were waiting. Although not for a moment attempting to shift the blame from the "murderous Germans" for the sinking of a ship full of innocent passengers, they insisted that the officers of the steamship, knowing that submarines were lurking off the Irish Coast, ought to have taken a different path to avoid all danger.

The criticisms of the survivors, among whom were several Americans were in the main as follows:

First—That the Lusitania steered straight into the way of the submarines by Captain Turner not running the ship in a more southerly course as he approached the channel.

Second—That instead of the Lusitania being speeded at the top notch of twenty-five an hour, she slackened her speed on nearing the Irish Coast, thus allowing the submarines more easily to do their deadly work; her speed at the time she was torpedoed being estimated by the passengers at approximately fifteen knots an hour. Statements have also been made on good authority that one section of the Lusitania's boilers were shut down, and that consequently she could not make over twenty-two knots, or in a brief spurt, twenty-three.

Third—That despite knowledge of the proximity of submarines which had been seen off the Irish coast, twenty-four hours before, no convoy was given the Lusitania.

Fourth—That the Lusitania's officers were apparently oblivious to a submarine attack in failing to have the passengers drilled, the officers being accused of giving no heed to passengers' suggestions that a drill was needed, so as to know what to do in the event of the vessel being torpedoed.

Upon the points of criticism thus raised by the survivors the American Embassy is conducting an investigation through its two military captains, who were despatched yesterday to Queenstown. It is admitted that though the outcome of the enquiry will in no way effect the responsibility of neutrals, the investigation will embrace all the facts.

Two trainloads of the survivors arrived at Euston station at 2 o'clock in the morning, and another at noon at Paddington. Bedraggled and weary, they came from the trains, many of them wearing ill-fitting clothes which were given them at Queenstown after the rescue. Nearly all were practically without funds, excepting what the American embassy had given them through Consul Frost at Queenstown.

There was not a passenger among the men and women survivors but plainly showed the physical effect of their harrowing experience. Nearly all had been in the water from one to three hours.

A throng of nearly 250 anxious friends and relatives waited at Euston and Paddington stations to meet the survivors and asked about loved ones from whom no word has yet come.

The scene at both stations was pitiful in the extreme. Men broke into tears and women were half hysterical as the survivors emerged from the trains.

Many men survivors brought along the life preservers they wore when the Lusitania sank. The preservers were wrapped in brown paper or steamer rugs.

No Precautions

Francis Jenkins, of New York, was one of those who talked emphatically on what he styled the failure of the Lusitania officers to avoid the submarine danger.

"It was outrageous that the Lusitania pushed her head right into the path of danger," said Mr. Jenkins, as he limped from the train at Euston, having been injured when a lifeboat crashed into the side of the steamer as it was lowered.

"It seems to me that the Cunard officials did not use judgment to protect the lives of passengers. The utmost confidence, even to the point of boasting, was assumed by the ship's officers on the entire run on the unlikelihood of the ship being torpedoed. Some of the most prominent passengers went to Capt. Turner three days before the Lusitania was sunk and told him there was considerable talk among the passengers about submarines, and asked if it was not advisable to have a boat drill, so that the passengers would know how to escape if the ship was torpedoed. The captain coolly replied that he was not worried about the danger, and that he would get the Lusitania into port safely.

"'A torpedo can't get the Lusitania, said the captain, 'she runs too fast.'

"The captain, however, said that he would speak to the first officer about a drill. I don't know if he did speak to the first officer, but I do know that there was no drill. This was commented on by the passengers as we neared the Irish coast, on the very day the Lusitania was torpedoed.

"We all marveled, too, that the Lusitania actually cut down her speed as she approached the coast. Everyone knew that was the path of danger, and we fully expected the ship to be speeded to the utmost. Instead, she reduced her speed so much as to make the passengers talk of it. I spoke to an officer and he replied there was no chance of a submarine getting the Lusitania, and her speed did not make any difference.

"We were also amazed over the fact that there was no convoy for the ship. The general opinion was that torpedo boat destroyers would accompany us through the danger zone.

"A few of us suspected shortly after noon that a submarine was after us, when the ship gave a sudden turn. We looked for the submarine but did not see it. The Lusitania did not quicken her speed.

"I call the management of the Lusitania bad."

Unusual Shave View

E. T. Taylor, a hat manufacturer of Montreal, dwelt upon the look of conveyor as a mistake. He also spoke of the failure of the Lusitania to go at top speed, saying:

"How the Lusitania's officers can account for allowing her to creep through waters known to be dangerous to befriend me. It showed to my mind a queer lack of the simplest precautions. I fail also to understand why she took the course she did, knowing that submarines had been there the day before.

"Who blundered? The rescued passengers at Queenstown to whom I talked all commented on the captain daring to run the Lusitania at slow speed and the course he pursued. Nothing, of course, can shift the blame from Germany for wilful murder, but the point I make is that more care should have been exercised by those on whom the lives of the passengers depended."

A. J. Byington, a rubber merchant, of London, returning from Brazil, expressed amazement that the Lusitania maintained apparently slow speed in approaching the Irish coast.

"It looks to me," he said, "as if the Lusitania officials imagined that she was too lucky to be torpedoed. Instead of running fifteen or eighteen knots an hour, she ought to have been pushed to the limit, and that, we all understood, was the one means of safety upon which she depended.

"Another point which I think ought to be emphasized was that the Germans showed utter disregard for life by not giving time for the passengers to get off. No ships of any kind were in sight for ten or fifteen miles. The Germans had it all their own way. They could easily have allowed the Lusitania's passengers ample time to get into lifeboats and row away before shooting their torpedoes. There was no opportunity for anything to happen to the submarine if she was delayed. It shows that they did not care a rap about the loss of life in their murderous work."

Mr. Byington jumped into a lifeboat which was filled with so many passengers that the ropes broke. As the boat fell into the water it capsised, and nearly all were drowned. Mr. Byington, who had a life preserver on, swam to another boat. This latter capsised. Then he got into another boat and helped to row ashore.

VON BERNSTORFF IS THREATENED

Anonymous Letter Promising Destruction of Embassy Gets No Attention--Advance Knowledge Is Denied.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, reiterated yesterday what he said on leaving New York, to the effect that he could not discuss the Lusitania tragedy because he had nothing official from his Government on the subject. He knew nothing of the wrecking and sinking of the vessel except what he had seen in the newspapers, he said.

The Ambassador denied that he had advance knowledge from Germany of an intention to sink the Lusitania. Had he known in advance, he said, he could have gone no further in a newspaper advertisement than to give notice.

Persons disposed to criticise the attitude of the German embassy contend that the denial of Count von Bernstorff that he had advance knowledge of any intention on the part of the German Government is laying too much stress on this feature. It is argued that if the warning was not intended to apply directly to the Lusitania, and all the time the German Government contemplated the sinking of that ship, the claims that the American passengers on the Lusitania must have understood that the warning was intended to apply to them will not bear scrutiny.

It was said at the German embassy, in response to inquiries that an anonymous letter had been received there threatening that the embassy would be blown up at 1:30 to 2 o'clock Monday morning. A copy of this communication, substantially the same as that delivered at the German embassy, was received by a newspaper, and this caused the inquiries.

Count von Bernstorff said that such a letter had come to the embassy on Sunday morning. He did not take it seriously, saying that he would be abed and asleep at the hour named in the letter. The letter was typewritten on paper with a watermark showing the American eagle and the shield of the United States, and is said to be similar to that used in the Government departments, but no significance was attached to this at the embassy, where the opinion was given that the letter was the work of a crank. The letter was as follows:

"You will be blown up tonight at 1:30 to 2 o'clock.
(Signed) "AN AMERICAN."

On their own initiative, the Washington police have placed a guard around the German embassy.

Demonstrations in Liverpool Because of Lusitania Outrage—Germans and Austrians Interned

LIVERPOOL, May 11.—Anti-German demonstrations continued throughout yesterday and last evening by thousands of infuriated citizens here and in nearby towns. All German shops were visited simultaneously, looted and then set on fire, while their stocks were carried off openly. The police were virtually helpless as only small contingents were able to be present at each place attacked. The fire department was kept busy all evening extinguishing fires.

All Germans and Austrians in Liverpool will be interned, and naturalized Germans will be advised to leave the city for their own safety. Fifty already have been interned.

J. Kern, who was German consul at Liverpool when the war broke out, and who formerly was president of the Cotton Association, yesterday resigned his membership in that association.

VESSEL STRUCK BY ONE TORPEDO

Statement of Captain Turner in Regard to Destruction of Lusitania — Second Explosion Was Internal.

LONDON, May 10.—The Cunard Line steamer Lusitania, which was sunk last Friday off the Old Head of Kinsale, Ireland, by a submarine, was struck by but one torpedo, according to the testimony of Captain Turner, of the steamship, given today at the coroner's inquest at Kinsale. But this deadly missile found a vital spot and sent the liner to the bottom in less than twenty minutes, carrying with her over a thousand souls.

The evidence of Capt. Turner, which cleared up many other points concerning the disaster, and that of other members of the crew of the vessel with a general knowledge of the situation, led the jury to bring in a verdict of "wholesale murder" against the German Emperor and his Government, and the officers of the submarine directly responsible for the sinking of the ship.

It was disclosed by Capt. Turner and by Mr. Winston Spencer Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a statement in the House of Commons, that the captain had received wireless advice from the Admiralty in regard to the presence of submarines on the liner's course. Captain Turner, in his testimony, said he had followed this advice "to the best of my ability."

The character of the advice tendered by the Admiralty was not divulged, and will not be until Lord Mersey opens his inquiry into the loss of the ship.

Internal Explosion

Meanwhile the cause of the heavy loss of life, the absence of any naval escort for the vessel, and the suddenness with which she sank afford room for much speculation. Capt. Turner, in declaring that one torpedo did all the damage, said the second explosion which the passengers heard was an internal one, and that the engines having been put out of commission, it was impossible to stop the liner and permit of her boats being lowered properly.

The idea of an internal explosion is supported by naval experts, who point out that if the torpedo had exploded on contact with the steamer, she would have only been disabled or had one or two of her compartments flooded. It is evident, however, they say, that if the torpedo penetrated the hull and the charge of 420 pounds of explosive was detonated, it would have created an effect similar to the explosion of a magazine within a ship. There is little wonder, therefore, they say, that the Lusitania sank so rapidly, or that so many persons were killed by the fumes of the explosive.

On the question why no naval escort accompanied the Lusitania Mr. Churchill explained in the House that the policy of the Admiralty is that merchantmen must look after themselves. This policy was due to the fact that the Admiralty had not sufficient destroyers to escort all merchantmen; they being required to guard the continuous stream of transports from England to France and to protect the English east coast from German raids.

Naval observers are of the opinion that the use of destroyers for the protection of shipping is probably what the Germans are trying to force England to give, but they say that the Admiralty with its eye first on the naval and military needs of the country will not divert its ships for other purposes. Some of the members of the House of Commons, however, express the belief that a steamer that is particularly threatened with destruction should be especially protected, and the matter of convoys doubtless will be further discussed in Parliament.

Helps Recruiting

All this discussion, however, has not lessened the anger of the people at the action of Germany which resulted in the loss of so many lives of non-combatants.

Throughout the country this anger has found expression in many ways. In some towns where there are numbers of German people, rioting has occurred, while more staid business men have decided to exclude all men of the enemy's country, and even naturalized Britishers of Germanic descent, from the exchanges of the country.

Another effect of the sinking of the Lusitania is the boom in recruiting. Every recruiting office reported today that more men had presented themselves for service than for weeks past.

The main hall of the chief recruiting office in London was crowded all day with men waiting for medical examination. This boom also was helped by a German aeroplane raid on Southend and vicinity early today. Altogether the airmen dropped 130 bombs, but strangely only two deaths resulted. An old woman was killed in her bed, and her husband, who attempted rescue, died from injuries received in jumping from a window. The material damage caused by fire started by the bombs is estimated at $50,000.

Asphyxiating Gases

LONDON, May 10.—The British Government has sent Dr. John Scott Haldane, the expert on gases in mines, and similar subjects, to the front, to experiment with methods for counteracting the asphyxiating gases used by the Germans. The Government is considering supplying the troops with helmets containing cotton saturated with neutralizing chemicals. Dr. Haldane is the scientist who previously visited France and reported on the effects of gas poison on Canadian victims.

Youthful Passengers' Experience

LONDON, May 10.—Frank Hook, an 11-year-old boy passenger on the Lusitania, was returning to England from Toronto with his father and sister. He was pitched overboard as the boat went down, and suffered a broken leg by striking a piece of wreckage. The boy sank, but came up again and clutched an upturned boat. He became separated from his father, who did not know the boy was alive until he found him in a hospital in Queenstown.

Mail Lost on Lusitania

WASHINGTON, May 10.—The loss of eighty-two bags of mail on the Lusitania is said by the Post Office Department to be the first ever lost at sea by result of war. Records for the last 100 years show no ship lost. Post office officials decline to discuss to what extent, if any, the loss of the mail may enter into the international complications arising out of the sinking of the ship.

FURTHER NAMES OF SURVIVORS

List Is Announced by Cunard Line Offices, but Conveys Little Solace to Mourning Friends.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Although a number of additional names of survivors of the Lusitania disaster were given in the latest revised list issued here today by the Cunard Steamship Company, there was little to cheer anxious relatives or friends, because a list of identified dead given out contained the names of some who had previously been reported among the survivors.

Relatives of Mrs. Ogden H. Hammond, of Bernardsville, N. J., abandoned hope she was among the survivors today when they received a cablegram which indicated that her name previously given as among the survivors had been confused with that of Mrs. F. S. Hammond, a steerage passenger of Toronto, who was saved. Ogden H. Hammond was saved, but the husband of the Toronto woman was lost.

Friends of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt were prepared tonight to abandon hope that he might have been saved, with the receipt of the latst advices from Queenstown that no trace of the young millionaire had been found.

Cunard line officials were trying to trace the origin of a message from Queenstown signed by Mrs. E. Bliss Thompson, of Seymour, Ind., who said she could find no trace of her husband. A previous message received here by T. S. Bliss, an uncle of Mr. Thompson, purported to come from Mr. Thompson and told of the safety of himself and his wife. A relief committee named by Acting Mayor McAneny to raise funds for the survivors and relatives met today and arranged to send money to England for those in dire need. Arrangements also will be made to furnish relief for those left destitute in this country. A general appeal for funds will be sent out tomorrow, it was announced.

Arrangements were completed today for the funeral of Charles Frohman. The body will be sent from Liverpool on Saturday aboard the SS. New York, which is due here on Sunday, May 23. The funeral will take place on May 25, and will be private. On that day all of Mr. Frohman's theatrical enterprises in the United States and England will be closed.

Additional Names

The names of additional survivors among the Lusitania's passengers taken from a revised list issued by the Cunard Line tonight follows:

First cabin—Adams, A. H., New York; Allan, Maid of Lady Allan; McMurtry, F. A., New York; Myers, two names, one without initials and the other probably Herman A., of New York; Ryerson, Miss Laura, Detroit.

Second cabin—Bartlett, E., New York; Dixon, Mrs. A., New York; Gray John, San Francisco; Lertold, Miss C. M. E., Chicago; McGinley, Patrick, New York; McKetchen, Mrs. E. V., Gillespie, Ills.; Muir, Matthew, New York; Naisch, Mrs. Theodore, Kansas City; Needham, Henry E., New York; Norman, Robert, New York; Robinson, Robert, ——; Smith, Alfred F., Elmwood, Pa.; Storch, L. R., San Francisco; Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs., Boston; Wickingsmith, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril, ——; Baxter, Mrs. Wm., Welland, Ont.; Elliott, A. W., Calgary; Ferris, Mrs. Margaret, Penticton, B.C.; Haines, Duncan, Saskatoon; Lintott, R. I., Calgary; Matthews, R., Canada; Neatby, Miss Freda, Saskatoon; Robertson, Mrs. T. H., Vancouver, B.C.; Tijon, W. E., Toronto; Webster, Mrs. V. A., Toronto; Wiggins, Mrs. A. V., Toronto.

The Cunard steamship line tonight announced the names of additional injured survivors who are confined in hospitals in Queenstown. The list also contains the names of injured who have been discharged:

Discharged from hospitals: Schwarte, August W., New York; Marnes, Allen; Barbour, Miss Bessie; Light, Herbert; McFadden, Hugh, Galt, Ont.; Sheppardson, Arthur, Los Angeles; Waulds, Andrew.

Additional injured—Duncan, Robert, Montreal; Leipold, Miss C. F. E.; Hook, Frank; Judson, Frank S., New York; Storck, W.; Dyson, Mrs. A., New York; Gordon, George; Leary, James J., New York; Myers, Jos (member of crew).

Ninety-Two Buried

QUEENSTOWN, May 10.—Ninety-two passengers of the Cunard Line steamer Lusitania who formed part of the pitiful handful of maimed, dead and dying brought ashore with the survivors of the disaster that followed the attack on the vessel by a German submarine last Friday were buried this afternoon with services that have no parallel in history.

Under a sky in which not a single cloud floated, and to the strains of hymns played by British soldiers, they were laid to rest two miles behind Queenstown in a cemetery bursting with Spring greenery, and tucked between hills flaming with gorse. The services at the graves began at four o'clock, and at half past four the sod of Ireland was being shovelled upon the coffins.

The name of Mrs. Charles F. Fowles, of New York, a first cabin passenger to-was added to the list of identified dead.

CORK, May 11.—Sevear additional bodies from the Lusitania were landed at Baltimore last evening from a patrol boat.

MURDER OF BABIES

Some 100 Helpless Little Ones Among Victims of Lusitania Tragedy—One Mother's Affliction

LONDON, May 10.—The Illustrated London Herald correspondent at Cork says there were on the Lusitania fifty babies who were less than twelve months old and more than 100 others whose ages did not reach two years. Nearly all have been drowned.

"The babies were the talk of the ship, and everybody tried to look after them when the time came. There are numerous cases recorded where both passengers and crew stripped themselves of their own lifebelts to put around the little ones, but it was useless, and about 150 of the infants, it is calculated, died from shock and exposure. They were afterwards seen floating in the water with lifebelts tied around their little bodies, but they were past saving.

"Their mothers recovered consciousness in the receiving boats only to find that the little ones they were hugging to their bosoms were dead. One mother lost all her three young children, one six, one four and the third a baby in arms, six months old. She herself lives. She held up the three of them in the water, all the time shrieking for help. When rescued by a boat party the two eldest children were dead. Their room was required on the boat, and the mother was brave enough to realize this.

"'Give them to me,' she shrieked. 'Give them to me, my bonnie wee things. I will bury them. They are mine to bury, as they were mine to keep.' With her hair streaming down her back and her form shaking with sorrow, she took hold of each little one from the rescuers and reverently placed it in the water again, and others in the boat wept with her as she murmured a little sobbing prayer to the 'Great God above.' But her cup of sorrow was not yet completed, for just as they were landing her third and only remaining child died in her arms."

ATTEMPTS LIFE OF SUPERIOR OFFICER

Deputy Police Chief Palmer Has Remarkable Escape When Constable Abbott's Revolver Fails to Explode.

A sensation was sprung in local police circles on Sunday when, following an attempt upon the life of Deputy Chief Thomas Palmer whom, it is alleged, he tried to shoot and only failed in doing so by reason of the fact that the revolver he held failed to discharge, Constable J. Abbott, was placed under arrest at noon. He will be arraigned on a charge of attempting to murder Deputy Palmer.

The members of the department had, at first, hard work in believing that the constable made an attempt upon the life of his superior officer, especially in view of the fact that the latter has on many occasions, shown his good will towards Abbott.

It was at noon on Sunday that Abbott, who had been on duty in the wrecked Blanshard Hotel, was relieved. He had been drinking somewhat, but his appearance did not indicate that he was much the worse for his potations. His condition, however was reported to headquarters and he was immediately called in. Deputy Chief Palmer ordered him to remove his uniform and go home. The Deputy Chief went around to his office, which is off the police court room. He was talking with Police Court Clerk Peter Gardiner when the door burst open and Abbott, who appeared greatly enraged, rushed into the room. He commenced upbraiding Deputy Chief Palmer in wild fashion, using foul language and followed his threat to kill the deputy by producing his police revolver. He pushed the muzzle against the deputy's body and pulled the trigger four times. The deputy was wholly unprotected but remained cool, and as he attempted to calm the other he edged closer. Suddenly he sprang towards Abbott and grappled with him, locking his arm around the other's neck. Abbott had put his revolver back in his pocket but, as he went to the floor with Deputy Palmer above him he made frantic efforts to get out his revolver. Mr. Gardiner ran to the telephone and summoned assistance from the detective office and police station and within a few seconds other members of the force arrived and secured the constable.

Constable Abbott has been a member of the force for a number of years, and hitherto has been a man of even temperament, never having had any trouble with any member of the department. On the contrary he has been rather of a free and easy type. Recently he was removed from his position of jailer and placed on outside duty, and subsequently he underwent an operation which confined him to his home for some time. He has been back on duty for only a week or ten days.

The failure of the revolver to discharge was due to some defect of the spring whereby the trigger was not propelled far enough forward for the pin to strike the cartridge. It was a remarkably fortunate thing for Deputy Chief Palmer that Abbott did not pull the trigger a fifth time. A test made of the revolver afterwards showed that on the fifth pull the trigger would have worked perfectly, and undoubtedly have discharged the cartridge.

AUTHORITIES HAVE SITUATION IN HAND

Military and Police Arrangements Preclude Resumption of Disorderly Scenes of the Previous Two Evenings.

Awed by the energetic measures which the police and military authorities took on Sunday evening in their efforts to deal with the disturbances arising out of Saturday night's rioting, the element responsible completely effaced themselves last night. The mounted and foot patrols of the military and police had an easy time of it, and not an incident occurred to mar the quiet of the night.

As a precautionary measure the Board of License Commissioners on Sunday afternoon decided to close the licensed premises of the city for three days, thus stopping the sale of liquor. Early yesterday morning License Inspector Hatcher notified all licensees, and the order was cheerfully obeyed in every instance. Not only the hotel bars, but also wholesale and bottle premises were closed, as well as the sale of liquor in hotel grills and cafes stopped.

Yesterday the police were active rounding up persons who were found in possession of goods believed to have been stolen from various premises on Saturday night. Twelve men were placed under arrest yesterday morning and afternoon and will be arraigned in the Police Court this morning charged with being in possession of stolen goods. One prisoner will be charged with stealing and two others with inciting to riot. The police possess the names of a considerable number of persons who were noticed on Saturday evening carrying goods from the premises of Messrs. Simon Leiser & Company and Mr. Moses Lees. Chief of Police Langley desires to issue notice that unless the goods taken are immediately returned prosecutions will be entered against the guilty ones.

Up to midnight but two reports of minor misdeings were received at police headquarters. Some men or boys broke a number of windows in a residence at the corner of Moss and Beasley Streets, and a stray individual hurled two stones at the already shattered windows of the New England hotel.

The co-operation of the police and military authorities following a meeting yesterday resulted in arrangements which would have proved successful had the troubles of the previous evening been resumed. The military force sent into the city from the Willows camp consisted of 375 members of the C. M. R. and 300 infantry. Twenty-five men were stationed at the Victoria Phoenix Brewing Building; twenty-five around the premises of Messrs. Fenton Bros., Russell Street, Victoria West, and a like number in the immediate vicinity of the Silver Spring Brewing Company, Esquimalt Road. Twenty-five men blocked the Point Ellice and E. & N. Railway bridges, the idea being that in the event of any crowd attempting to cross it could be stopped at Government House, where a military guard of twenty-five men was stationed on Sunday, the guard was continued. For the downtown section fifty men were posted at the corner of Government and Yates Streets, and smaller squads at other points in readiness to act if occasion required.

At police headquarters, which was also made military headquarters, Col. Ogilvie and officers were on hand with Chief of Police Langley, Deputy Chief Palmer and Mayor Stewart. Motor cars were available in case of a hurry call for men. It was the full determination of the authorities to stand no nonsense had trouble been resumed last night. The arrangements had been so made that the police were ready to attack any rioting body and they would have had the full support of the military forces.

Appreciate Sentiments

Mayor Stewart stated last evening that he was convinced the people of Victoria appreciated the enforcement of a proclamation of the disorderly scenes of the previous evenings. It was a new experience for Victoria and doubtless many people did not realize what a continuance of the trouble might lead to. But the absence of the crowds on the streets was taken by His Worship as evidence of the determination of the citizens not to encourage anything of the nature of Saturday and Sunday nights' proceedings.

Every arrangement for the convenience of the troops on duty were made. The infantry were given hot coffee and sandwiches at downtown restaurants and the mounted men, who were not able to leave their horses except in small squads, were provided for at police headquarters, the barrack room being turned into a dining quarters.

The suspects taken yesterday and who will be arraigned this morning were their names as follows: William [illegible], charged with stealing; Reginald Vernon and F. Simmons, arrested by Detectives Hanna and Hawkins, charged with inciting to riot, and the following men, held for being in possession of stolen goods: George Hopside, Nicholas Bostic, Thomas Hayes, George Mann, James Patterson, Peter Harverin, W. Trumbleton, John Kelleher, Thomas Smith, John Brown, Dan Justin Hunt and Joseph Chitwood.

THE TERMS OF PEACE

The main object that the Allies have in view in prosecuting the war is to put an end for ever to the German menace. It is early to discuss by what means this can be accomplished, but we notice that the subject during the past few weeks has been engaging considerable attention in the French press. The prospects of a prolonged peace after the present struggle is over must largely depend on the new delimitation of boundaries in Europe. There is a growing conviction in France that no permanent peace can prevail until Germany has felt, as deeply as France and Belgium, all the horrors of the war she has unchained. In this conception their is no spirit of retaliation in kind, for it is unthinkable that France, or any of the Allied nations, will resort to the barbarities that have made Germany an outcast among nations. What is meant is that the forces of France, Belgium and Britain must carry the war into German territory. The irreducible minimum of the peace terms in the mind of the average Frenchman today may be put in the following concrete terms:

Alsace-Lorraine restored to France.

Belgium restored and rehabilitated in the fullest degree.

An indemnity sufficient at least to make good all destruction wrought by Germany in the invaded departments and to meet the interest on the war loans.

In addition to the foregoing, there is a condition that has been widely discussed as essential to the prospects of future peace, namely, that France and Belgium should have all Germany up to the left bank of the Rhine and the bridge-ends over the Rhine. Military strategists point out that only by this last condition can France protect herself against renewed treacherous attacks, and doubtless the same argument applies to Belgium. Whatever the settlement will be, there is not a shadow of doubt that the French nation is fighting today with the firm belief that the end of the war will mean the removal of the German menace, and Britain and Russia are equally determined that no peace is possible until the spectre of Prussian militarism is destroyed. Russia, on her side, must obtain compensation for the awful sacrifices she has had to make, and included in this must be an indemnity to make good the destructon of property in Poland. We do not know what the British demands at the Peace Conference will be, and it would be a difficult matter to speculate upon. It is certain that among them will be some agreement, ingured by some more binding arrangement than a "scrap of paper," to preserve the neutrality of Belgium. She must also put forward conditions which will relieve hereafter the preoccupation in the North Sea, and leave her navy free to patrol the waterways of the world. What decision will be reached about the future of the former German colonial empire is unknown. What Britain has won at the cost of so much bloodshed in Africa will doubtless be administered by her in future years. Germany as a colonial power has proved herself a failure, and those in Africa whom she governed will welcome the time when they no longer feel the burden of her yoke.

THE WAR

A London dispatch says an important movement by the Allied forces is in progress along the northern part of the Western line on a front of twenty-six miles. The British troops have, it is said, been strongly reinforced and with their Allies are evidently determined to push this attack home. The fighting began on Sunday morning and was proceeding advantageously to our side at the last advices. This information is unofficial. The official statement reports the repulse of three German attacks in Belgium, the capture of a strongly fortified position to the east of St. George's and also one further east, the making of important gains north of Arras, the successful retention of the ground gained, and advances in several other places, in one of which the ground won is two and one-half miles in width. More than 2,000 prisoners have been taken. Favorable news also comes from the Argonne. The above official statements are from French sources. General French reports heavy attacks to the east of Ypres by the Germans, all of which were repulsed with great loss to the enemy.

Along the Eastern line the Russians claim that they have been successful in resisting the advances of the Germans and have compelled them to retreat in several places. In Western Galicia they report that while the German attacks continue to be vigorous, they are less frequent. We now seem justified in concluding that the Austro-German claim of a great and far-reaching victory in that sphere of operations was unfounded. They maintain a notable success, but it has not as yet brought forth any results of importance. Copenhagen reports that the Germans in the northern part of the Eastern line have received a very severe check and have been compelled to retreat.

The only news received from the Southeast yesterday and Sunday was that the Russians had sunk six Turkish transports in the Bosphorus and that two others had been sunk in the Sea of Marmora. The dispatch was silent as to the agency by which the latter were sunk. The statement is also made that the Turkish army had left Adrianople in the direction of a Black Sea port. The only explanation that can be given for this is that the landing of a Russian force is expected. It will be recalled that about a week or so ago it was stated that Russian transports were assembling at Odessa for the purpose of carrying troops to invade Turkey-in-Europe.

THE UNITED STATES

What has appeared so far in the dispatches as to the action which the United States will take in the emergency that has arisen is necessarily a matter of surmise. President Wilson is dealing with an exceedingly difficult and, in some respects, quite unprecedented, situation. The crux of the case, as far as he is concerned, arises out of the statement in his first communication to Germany that the latter country would be held to strict accountability if the lives of any American citizens should be destroyed in consequence of the declaration of a war zone around the British Isles.

President Wilson must, of course, be given time to think over the action he will take. His responsibility is too great to be discharged in haste. Moreover, he is hampered to a certain extent. He cannot declare war without the assent of Congress. This is expressly stipulated in the Constitution of the United States. He may, however, commit the country to any line of action short of a declaration of war. For example, it is reported that the President will demand that submarine warfare against passenger ships shall cease. He would be quite within his rights in so demanding; but if this demand were refused, he would be compelled to call Congress together and ask its authority to take the next step, which would be a declaration of war, provided he intended to seek authority to enforce his demand. We are not sure, however, if he might not, without consulting Congress, break off diplomatic relations with Germany. Upon this point we do not feel able to express any opinion, for we are not sure whether the provisions of the Constitution that might be applicable to this point have ever had a construction placed upon them. We only mention this point as being a course which the President might take if he has no wish to commit the United States to war; but if he did recall the Ambassador to Germany, an act which would compel the withdrawal of the German Ambassador from Washington, he would only thereby delay a declaration of war.

THE RIOT ACT

What is the Riot Act? asks a correspondent. What is so called is a proclamation made by a mayor, sheriff or other official charged with preserving the peace, and it is to be read when a gathering of people has begun to disturb the peace. It is as follows:

Our Sovereign Lord the King charges and commands all persons being assembled immediately to disperse and peaceably to depart to their habitations or to their lawful business, upon the pain of being guilty of an offence, on conviction of which they may be sentenced to imprisonment for life. God Save the King!

When this proclamation has been made all persons, whether they have, or have not, been participating in riotous proceedings, must be governed by it and they are liable to arrest and prosecution for disobeying it. Before the Riot Act has been read persons who are mere spectators of a tumultuous gathering are within their rights, but afterwards that which was lawful becomes "instantly unlawful."

RED CROSS WORK

The splendid work carried on in this city in aid of the work of the Red Cross commands the unbounded admiration of all who have had the opportunity of observing it. The piles of material collected in the Alexandra Club ballroom, and the many busy women engaged in preparing the material for use in field and hospital work bring home very vividly, to those who see it, the grim reality of war; but there is something inspiring in the self-denying industry displayed day after day with untiring and well directed zeal.

Those who are engaged in this work are displaying a patriotic sense of duty of the highest type. One beautiful feature of it is the unassuming way in which everything is being done. With no flourish of trumpets these ladies meet and quietly perform their self-imposed tasks. It is indicative of the nobility of womanhood that so many of them are able to find time for this occupation, which to not a few of them is of quite an unaccustomed character.

LET GALLOWS RULE

The sinking of the Lusitania, which brought directly home to the people of Victoria the enormity of German atrocities, called forth a feeling of indignation unparalleled in the history of this city. This found expression in acts of violence, the suddenness and heiness of which surprised even those engaged in them and found the city authorities quite unprepared to deal with them. When once the crowd got out of hand, it went to extremes, which full knowledge relating to some of those who suffered from it shows would have been unwarranted under any circumstances.

It is to be hoped that the efforts of the authorities to cope with the situation that has arisen will receive the very hearty support of the citizens generally. No good purpose can be served by the destruction of property; its only effect is to add to the difficulty of a situation already sufficiently difficult.

While saying this, we would like to add that no language can express fittingly the horror to which these German infamies give rise. A terrible day of reckoning awaits those responsible for them. Knowledge of this should emphasize the duty of our remaining calm. It is difficult to exercise self-control in the face of such outrages, but let us not forget that our patriotic duty is either with or on behalf of those who are fighting the enemy in the field. Let us not forget that any exhibition of our indignation, however just it may be, will reach our enemies in a distorted form. Do not let us give the enemy any color of an excuse for retaliation upon our gallant lads who may unhappily fall into their hands. We are in danger of adding to their danger, already great enough, if we are not careful how we conduct ourselves. Therefore, let us be calm. Let us return to a normal frame of mind, which will lead us to preserve order at home, and strengthen by every means in our power the hands of the men who are fighting for us. A tremendous work remains to be done before the demon of Prussian militarism has been exorcised. We have no strength to spare for such demonstrations as those that have recently happened. All good citizens will surely realise the force of what we have said, and will unite in discountenancing any more of such scenes as those which marred Saturday and Sunday. Public opinion ought to be strong enough to make any extraordinary precautions unnecessary for the prevention of disorderly and destructive conduct on the part of irresponsible people.

Let us all be ourselves again.

The Staats Zeitung, of New York, hopes President Wilson will wait until he learns what really caused the sinking of the Lusitania before he acts. Evidently the New York German organ does not believe what the German authorities say about it.

The action of His Worship the Mayor in calling out the Militia last night was eminently proper. Any demonstrations that might otherwise have been made would have been without the excuse that they were prompted by righteous indignation.

It has been currently reported in Victoria that the newspapers were in receipt of news stating that there had been rioting and anti-German demonstrations in several Canadian and American cities, and had suppressed the information. Such a report was absolutely without foundation. So far as The Colonist knows, and we assume this is also true of our evening contemporary, there were no disorders in any other city on this continent.

It is to be noted in passing that a great deal of the disorder of Saturday night and a greater proportion of that of Sunday night was due to youths and young men, who, while ordinarily well enough behaved were, for the time being, forgetful of what they owe to themselves and the community in which they live. They may regard themselves as fortunate to have escaped very serious consequences for their folly.

If any persons are in possession of goods, which, in the excitement of Saturday and Sunday nights were carried away from stores in the city, we are very sure they will only need to be reminded of their duty to see they are returned to the owners forthwith. There is something contagious in the action of crowds, and all those individuals, who were led away by what others were doing, ought to avail themselves of the first opportunity to remedy this mistake.

In an interview in Regina, Mr. W. B. Lonnigan, assistant freight traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific, said: "When the war in Europe is over, there will be a repetition, on a larger scale, of the greatest immigration movement in modern history, when people will rush across the Atlantic into America, in greater numbers than they did at the conclusion of the Franco-Prussian war. Just as surely as the unsettled conditions at the time of the great war of 1870 drove thousands of people from their native land to seek new homes across the Atlantic, so will the thousands come into Canada when the present war is ended. The low priced lands of Western Canada is surely the place where these men will settle."

One Point of View

Sir,—After reading the article on street car fares in your issue of May 4, the question occurred to me: Who have people patronized the "Sievert" And speaking from my own experience, which scores could endorse, it was, at first, because they couldn't get the cars. To a great many the jitney was a set-off to the exasperation caused by being so repeatedly left on the curb stone, and until the driver can be surrounded to take his cars off the track and look around for passengers, I don't think prices will make much difference. I have heard it remarked: "One need almost to be a highwayman to stop a car," and certainly short of a hold-up, one must be on the proper side of the road, the proper corner of the street and the proper distance off the curb. If four passengers are missed within three blocks, as I have seen on Pandora, at that rate there would be a considerable loss by the end of the route. In all cases, with marcelle and others, one could have been at the entrance by the time the car stopped. For the first time in my life, and I'm elderly, I got a motor because the car passed me at a few yards (I was signalling, but on the wrong side), and I had an appointment.

With reference to tickets, although I can plead "not guilty" to posing as a workingman, and the wildest stretch of imagination couldn't make me appear so, why, on requiring tickets, did the conductor ask, "White or green?" Surely it was the conductor's genial warmth produced some of those extraordinary "blossomings." Then as for sardines. Have the electric officials no idea of the terrible overcrowding there used to be? The jitney sardines certainly have one advantage over the car brands, in that they at least have breathing space, and it is to the credit of the much enduring public that even when almost stifled, they can smile at the continuous request: "Move forward, please;" when the only available move would have meant "move off" through the front door. Personally, I prefer the street car, but "fair play's a jewel," so let those belonging to the cars take their share of blame for the falling off in passenger traffic.

German Marine Murdering

Sir,—In view of the Huns' dirty submarine work in general and, in particular, the callous slaughter of women and children on the Falaba, Lusitania and other vessels, probably the following remedy would at once very adequately meet the case:

Let every Allied mercantile vessel be armed, not, indeed, with guns, but Germans, and let the Hun Government be officially informed of the fact. Taking the Atlantic passenger trade for example, every Liverpool-Montreal boat would permanently carry fifty or so of the more prominent of our German prisoners, who, while accorded suitable liberty at sea, would invariably be confined below whenever leaving or arriving at an Allied port. Should America not immediately join the Allies, then let every Cunard boat leaving Liverpool carry the stipulated number of prisoners, who would be disembarked on a British cruiser outside New York are entering that port and taken on again on the vessel's return journey.

To prevent the taking off of prisoners every captain would receive orders never to stop on any submarine challenge, for in no instance could a German be trusted in any parley that might thus arise. In the first instance, then, let us begin with the captured submarine crews now in our hands.

Suitable modifications of the above proposal should also be tried in connection with our trawlers and other vessels. Surely the lives of our own sailors must dictate to us some protection for them of this kind, the only thing these German blackguards will ever understand or respect.

Victoria's Future

Sir,—By a mere chance a copy of The Daily Globe, of April 22, 1898, then published in Victoria, came into my hands this morning. One of its editorials on that day was on "Victoria's Future." An excerpt from that now sixteen-year-old expression of opinion and announcement of intention may be of interest to Colonist readers today, especially as, if I mistake not, the writer of that editorial has long been, and still is, on the editorial staff of The Colonist and still writing in a similar most commendable "Excelsior" spirit. He then wrote:

"The Globe has faith in Victoria . . . Victoria will be 'strictly in it.' That must be apparant to every intelligent man. This is no time for croaking; no time for dealing in petty things; no time for discussing trifles. It is a time when all should pull together for the advancement of one of the most beautiful cities in the British Empire—a city whose praises have been sung far and wide by all who have visited it and beheld its varied charms. If The Globe can in any way aid in advancing the true interests of the city, in securing for it the proper recognition that is its due, in pushing it forward into its proper place among the cities of the West, it wants to do it; it intends to do it. The Globe has no sympathy with those petty souls who devote their time to pulling down, to carping criticism and whining. The day for that sort of thing is past. The mighty West throbs with a vitality robust and strong, with a vigor which stifles pettishness whenever it shows its head. So be it with Victoria."

Doubtless your Mr. C. A. Gregg has since written in similar strain times without number, as, too, have those whose cheerful and deservedly optimistic views have in recent years so often found expression in the editorial columns of The Colonist. Victoria of today contrasted with the Victoria of a quarter of a century ago may well inspire to accelerated effort along the progressive and helpful lines characteristic of The Colonist, which merit the sincere appreciation of all interested in the further material advancement of this highly favored city.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S PART

Financial Matters in Connection With War Placed in Hands of Non-Partisan Committee

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., May 10.—The whole of the financial administration of Newfoundland's participation in the present war has been turned over by the Government to a non-partisan committee, composed of the leading business men of St. John's. These are already administering two funds, and have been asked to undertake the control of a third.

The first is the monetary appropriation set apart by the Government for the raising, equipping, transport and payment of the Newfoundland regiment.

The second is the Patriotic Fund, now $100,000, raised by public subscription to aid dependent relatives of those who have volunteered for active service on land or sea.

The third is the pension appropriation, which will provide, through the state, the necessary financial aid for men who may be disabled while on active service, or for the families of those who may lose their lives.

In the secondary schools alone in Japan more than 100,000 boys and girls are studying the English language.

Switzerland owns a greater proportion of its available waterpower than any other country.

READS RIOT ACT TO QUELL DISTURBANCES

Resumption of Rioting on Sunday Evening Leads Mayor to Call Upon Citizens to Disperse.

For the first time within the memory of the oldest living Victorian the head of the civic administration was called upon on Sunday evening to read the Riot Act in an attempt to quiet the disturbances which, following the rioting on Saturday evening, had assumed proportions which threatened to become most serious. Mayor Stewart performed this task in front of the New England Hotel, on which a crowd of men and boys had commenced an attack by hurling volleys of stones through the plate glass windows. Neither the presence of a squad of soldiers drawn up in front of the hotel nor the presence of His Worship, who read from a copy of the Criminal Code, appeared in the least to suppress the small riotous element of a large crowd, which packed the street almost from curb to curb. While His Worship read out the legal injunction to all and sundry to disperse and go to their homes, the volleys of stones continued; a section of the crowd commenced singing "Rule Britannia" and other patriotic airs.

There was no indication that any of the crowd knew what the Riot Act was or what its purport.

The Mayor's action was taken following the outbreak of rioting which commenced on Saturday night. All Sunday afternoon the civil authorities had been in conference with the military, as a result of which armed squads of soldiers had marched into the city from the Willows camp shortly after 7 o'clock. But the trouble had commenced before a guard, which was on its way to protect the Victoria Phoenix Brewing Company's premises, against which threats had been made, had arrived. The authorities were assured from private information given to them, as well as statements which had been overheard on Saturday evening, that the disturbances of the night before would be repeated. Colonel Ogilvie, D. O. C., returned on Sunday from Vancouver, and immediately got into touch with the civic heads. On Sunday afternoon all men on leave were notified to report at the Victoria Transfer Company's premises, where they were lined up and marched to camp. All leave was stopped. All members of the police department were on duty, and the authorities were convinced that sufficient steps had been taken to prevent a recurrence of the destructive tactics which took place on the previous night.

Attack on Brewery

The trouble makers, as if by previous arrangement, had gathered at the brewery, and when the news reached police headquarters shortly before 8 o'clock, the work of wrecking was well under way. The crowd, at first a comparatively small one, rapidly swelled as people rushed north towards the brewery to view the disturbance. The windows of the building were soon smashed; entrance was gained to the premises through the wagon gateway on Government Street, as well as by the rear, and while one section of the crowd pulled wagons out on to Government Street another continued the smashing of windows, while a third got inside the building and smashed a large quantity of beer bottles.

Some attempt to wreck machinery was made, but a squad of police, under Sergeant Fry, arrived and drove the crowd of youths from the interior into the street.

The greater part of the mob had by this time headed south, the cry of "The New England" indicating the determination of the rioters to wreck that hostelry. In the meantime, squads of soldiers were arriving in the city and a guard was placed in front of the hotel. An enormous crowd gathered, but the leaders of the mob apparently determined to postpone their attempt and they made their way, followed by a shouting gang, to the number of several hundred, by way of Government and View Streets to Douglas Street. Here they threatened an attack on the premises of Mr. Max Kilburger, jeweler, corner of Douglas and Fort Streets, but the disposition of the military had been made in accordance with the information the police had secured of the intention of the rioters and a squad of men was on hand when the first stone was thrown at Mr. Kilburger's premises and a plate glass window on the Fort Street side smashed. The streets were promptly cleared, but the soldiers had difficulty in forcing back the hundreds of people who rushed up to the spot, not with intent to commit damage, but out of curiosity.

Authorities in Control

It then appeared as if the authorities were in full control, but soon reports reached police headquarters that bodies of the rioters had scattered and on Yates Street, Fort Street and Government Street depredations commenced. The premises of Messrs. Schafer & Glass were broken open. Windows were smashed and the contents were thrown into the street and a large amount of wax carried away. The Bonnet Shop, next door, was the object of attack, the crowd apparently being under the impression that it was part of the premises of Messrs. Schafer & Glass. The place was looted and women shared in the loot. The O. F. Paint Company adjoining also suffered, many missiles smashing the windows. When told that the premises were not German nor owned by anyone of German extraction, the crowd of boys who had entered left after much of the stock had been pulled from the shelves and littered about the place. About the same time the clothes cleaning establishment of Herman & Stringer was sacked and damage to the amount of about $1,500 done.

Guards Broken Up

Reports of these disturbances induced Mayor Stewart to read the Riot Act, and in a motor car and accompanied by Col. Ogilvie and Chief Langley and others, he drove to Government Street. From that time on the police and military efforts were increased. Mounted sections of police and soldiers patrolled the downtown streets, moving the people along and preventing the gathering of crowds, while soldiers with rifles were stationed at all street intersections and everywhere the collection of a crowd was prevented so far as possible. A large squad of unmounted soldiers was kept in front of police headquarters and reliefs were regularly sent out. In all 300 mounted men of the C. M. R. and about 500 infantry were on duty, while every man of the police force was also engaged.

Some of the crowd made another visit to the premises of Messrs. Simon Leiser & Company, looted on Saturday evening, but beyond a few stones thrown at the boarded up window spaces, no damage was done. A military guard at Messrs. Pither & Leiser's balked the rioters' efforts there and beyond some damage done by youths to windows in the Chinese quarter, the trouble in the downtown section was over. In the outskirts damage was done to the confectionery factory of Messrs. Popham Bros., Russell Street, Victoria West, a gang of men and lads making their way across the former Indian Reserve. Windows were smashed and a quantity of stock wrecked by missiles, but the manager of the firm, Mr. A. E. Ormond, had been warned during the afternoon that an attempt on the place would probably be made and he had removed furniture, papers, etc. Apparently the crowd believed Mr. Simon Leiser had an interest in the firm. He had an interest some time ago, but was bought out and has now no interest in the business.

The attack upon the plumbing premises of Mr. E. F. Geiger, 828 Fisgard Street, was made by a small gang of boys and men, who evidently acted on an after-thought, and after smashing windows and breaking a quantity of interior fixtures and stock, they departed.

The patrol of the military and police was kept up until nearly 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when very few people were in evidence.

CANADIAN CITIZENS VICTIMS OF RIOTERS

In No Instance Did Supposed German Connection of Firms Whose Premises Were Damaged Justify Mob's Violence.

That there was some systematic method adopted by the ringleaders of the riots of Saturday and Sunday is evident from reports which the police have received. Lists of the designations of firms and private citizens bearing names of a Teutonic origin were prepared, and it was common gossip among a certain element that such and such a firm's place of business was slated for destruction, or the residence of such-and-such a person, believed to be a German sympathizer, would be attacked. It was in view of these street comments that the authorities last night took steps to guard certain premises which had escaped molestation on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

In nearly every case the premises wrecked belonged not to men of German birth, but to local British citizens, or, in cases where proprietors or partners were German born, they were naturalized British subjects of many years' standing.

A case in point, was the firm of Messrs. Simon Leiser & Company, the directorate of which is composed as follows: Mr. Simon Leiser, a native of Prussia, but naturalized a British subject in this city on September 1, 1892, and a man who has always taken a keen interest in the welfare of the city; the Hon. T. W. Paterson, former Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia; Mr. J. H. Lawson, Mr. R. P. Rithet, of the firm of R. P. Rithet & Company; Mr. J. A. Sayward, owner of the Sayward Block; Mr. D. R. Ker, of the firm of Brackman, Ker & Company, and Mr. James Forman, of the real estate firm of Messrs. Heisterman & Forman. The Hon. James Dunsmuir is one of the stockholders. With the exception of Mr. Leiser, all the shareholders are British or Canadian born.

All British Capital

Directors of the Victoria Phoenix Brewing Company, the premises of which were attacked on Sunday evening, declared yesterday that not one cent of German capital is invested in the business, which is wholly controlled by British capital and has been so ever since the incorporation of the company in 1892. The president of the company is Mr. H. E. Newton and the vice-president, Mr. Joseph E. Wilson, while Messrs. A. W. Jones, F. B. Pemberton, J. A. Bridgman and William Wilson are directors.

The crowd's attack upon the premises of Mr. Moses Lens, wholesale merchant, lower Yates Street, was undoubtedly induced by the name. Yet Mr. Lens, who has been a resident of Victoria for forty-two years, and who has been prominent in all activities looking towards the advancement of Victoria, is an American citizen. The business is wholly his own. He has laid his case before the United States consul here.

The firm of Pither & Leiser, whose premises at the corner of Wharf and Fort Street suffered some damage through the breaking of four plate glass windows, has no German capital invested in it. Ninety-five per cent of the business is owned by Mr. W. P. Geoghegan, of Dublin, Ireland, the remainder by his friends in Ireland.

The proprietor of the New England Hotel, Mr. Michael Young, was extremely indignant at the damage done to his premises. Government Street, where the crowd on Sunday night smashed the front plate glass windows. Mr. Young, who has been a British subject for forty years, was born in Bavaria and fought against the Prussians in 1866. He came here in 1871, and was naturalized. He denied that he was, or is, in sympathy with the Germans in the present strife.

In Victoria West

The interest which Mr. Simon Leiser was supposed to have in the firm of Popham Bros., wholesale confectioners, Russell Street, Victoria West, was the reason, apparently, for the attack of the crowd upon those premises on Sunday evening when a number of windows were smashed and other damage done. As a matter of fact Mr. Leiser has no interest in the business, which is owned by Mr. A. E. Ormond and Mr. Crowe, the latter of Winnipeg. At Mr. Geiger's premises, 828 Fisgard Street, the windows of the plumbing establishment were smashed and considerable damage done to the interior. The damage is estimated by Mr. Geiger, who is a native son of Victoria, at about $150.

Messrs. Herman & Stringer, proprietors of a clothes-cleaning establishment at 648 Yates Street, suffered damage to windows, etc., on Sunday night, and some of the fixtures were broken. Mr. Herman was born in Russia and is a naturalized Canadian, while Mr. Stringer is Canadian born of British parents.

The firm of Messrs. Schaper & Glass, tailors, 721 Fort Street, suffered the most damage from Sunday night's disturbance. Mr. Schaper has been a resident of Victoria for twenty-seven years, during the majority of which he has been a naturalized Canadian. Mr. Glass came here nearly four years ago from Toronto. He is of Irish-American birth.

The evident determination of the crowd to attack premises, the owners or proprietors of which bear names of Teutonic origin, led a number of firms to insert advertisements in the newspapers, calling attention to the fact of their British ownership. The Hafer Machine Company, Ltd., stated that no German or Austrian labor is employed by it. The Esquimalt Brewing Company, Limited, did likewise, and also Messrs. Goodacre & Sons, Weiler Bros., Limited, and others.

RIOT DAMAGE TOTALS MANY THOUSANDS

Rough Estimates Bring Loss to Premises Attacked to From Sixty to Seventy Thousand Dollars.

While none of the firms victimized by the attacks of the mob on Saturday and Sunday nights could give any definite estimate of the damage sustained, the figures as compiled yesterday would indicate that loss to the amount of at least $60,000 to $70,000 was suffered, a large part of it through the looting by the crowds. The robbery was such that yesterday general condemnation was expressed on every hand.

Mr. Simon Leiser estimates his loss at $30,000; Mr. Moses Lens asserted that he suffered a loss of between $10,000 and $15,000, while the damage to the Hanshard Hotel, formerly the Kaiserhof Hotel, was such that the place is virtually a wreck. No one could be found yesterday connected with the hotel who could give any idea of the damage done, but estimates ranged from $10,000 to $15,000.

The almost clean sweep which was made of the wholesale premises formerly managed by Carl Lowenberg, former German consul here, ran the loss of that firm into a large amount. Whole boxes of valuable pipes, cigarette holders, cases of high-class cutlery, etc., were carried off after entrance had been gained through the smashing of the windows and the bursting open of the door. The loss there will probably run to from $8,000 to $10,000.

Mr. Schaper estimates that his firm lost about $1,000 to $1,300 on Sunday night following the attack on his premises at 721 Fort Street. Bolts of cloth, hats and other articles were sewed up by the crowd, and very shortly the stock had vanished. At other places attacked on Saturday and Sunday evenings, the loss, while in each individual case not heavy, was in the aggregate considerable. The Victoria Phoenix Brewing Company suffered, through damage to windows, fixtures and ruined liquors probably $1,500 to $2,000, while the item of damage to windows, etc., at such premises as the New England Hotel, Mr. E. J. Geiger's plumbing establishment on Fisgard Street; Messrs. Heiman & Stringer, clothes-cleaning premises at 648 Yates Street; the premises of the former German Club, Government Street; Messrs. Pither & Leiser, and Messrs. Popham Bros., Victoria West, added at least another $1,000 or more to the total.

In every case where damage was done, the sufferers were emphatic in their declaration that they would take action to recover. It is probable that they will pool their claims so that all claimants may join in the proceedings. This step would permit of much more determined action, and at the same time reduce the expense for each one.

Notice was served upon the City yesterday by Mr. A. G. Sargison, owner of the premises occupied by Messrs. Herman & Stringer, 650 Yates Street, that he would demand compensation. He has not state the amount of his claim.

EXPORTS TO BRITAIN

Shipments of Canadian Produce in March Show Increase in Value, Though Decrease in Quantity

OTTAWA, May 10.—British trade returns just published here show to what extent Canadian exports of cereals and foodstuffs have found their way to Britain in spite of the hazards to which the trade routes have been subjected. During the month of March alone, while there was a decrease of 295,465 cwt. in the quantity of wheat exported from the Dominion to Great Britain there was an increase in the value of $550,546 as compared with the corresponding month of 1914. The decrease in the quantity of wheat meal and flour was 55,702 cwt. but the increase in value was $276,435. The increase in the value of bacon was $1,315,575, of cheese $871.65, of oats or split fir $214,655, and in the case of many other articles there were also marked increases.

For the first three months of the year, as compared with the corresponding period of 1914, the increase in the value of imports from Canada was £1,442,014 or $7,200,070.

Bacon, cheese and wheat were the commodities most favorably affected. There was a decrease of $550,075 in the value of cereal unmeal imports and a decrease of $135,555 in imports of flour or linseed.

LOSES TWO CHILDREN

Sad Experience of Dr. F. Warren Pearl of New York, and Family on Board Lusitania.

"QUEENSTOWN, May 10.—Dr. F. Warren Pearl, of New York, who was a surgeon-major in the United States army during the Spanish-American War, and was on the Lusitania on his way to Belgium on relief work, was saved, with his wife, who has a broken arm, and two of their children. Two other children and two nurses employed by Dr. Pearl are missing.

In the rush to the dock one of the nurses and two of the children were separated from the remainder of the family. Dr. Pearl left his wife in the care of Herbert Stone and Linden Bates, of New York, while he searched the ship for the missing members of his family.

Mrs. Pearl says that she saw Mr. Stone and Mr. Bates go down when a wave washed over the port side of the ship.

"When I reached the dock I found that one nurse and two of my children were missing," said Dr. Pearl. "I discovered later that they got into a boat which was launched safely on the starboard side. I returned to the port side and jumped overboard just before the ship went down.

"I did not know whether any of my family was safe until I got ashore after three hours in the water, in which I floated with the greatest comfort my life jacket. When I reached the land I found my wife suffering with a broken arm.

"I must thought two of our children to shore. Two are gone, but I thank God the remainder of my family escaped."

The reservists in this position, therefore, there is nothing to do but to await further instructions.

Unemployed Problem.—Owing to the necessity of meeting claims from unorganized districts, which are directly under its jurisdiction, the Provincial Government has decided that it cannot undertake at this time any further clearing of lands in cities or municipalities with the object of relieving the unemployed. This decision has been communicated to the heads of municipalities on the Mainland who had been pressing for further aid for land-clearing work.

Entering Allies.—The Hon. W. J. Bowser announced yesterday that the 154 Germans and Austrians who have been brought down via Fort George district are to be interned at Vernon. Under an arrangement made with General Otter, they will be set to work on the Government road, which runs from Edgewood to Vernon. They will be allowed, besides board and lodging, a remuneration of 25 cents per day, the scale set by The Hague Convention. Some 300 enemy aliens are already working there.

Date of Gateway.—The induction of the Very Rev. C. deV. Schofield, as rector of Christ Church Pro-Cathedral and his installation as Dean of Columbia will take place on Thursday, May 20, at 8:30 p.m. at the Cathedral. The Right Rev. Bishop Roper, who will officiate at the ceremony leaves the same day for his new work as Bishop of Ottawa. The election of a Lord of British Columbia to succeed Dr. Roper will be held on July 15; the consecration and enthronement of the bishop-elect will probably be held in August or in September.

Shawnigan Women's Institute.—The monthly meeting held on Thursday last was well attended, and much business connected with the activities of the various sub-committees was transacted. Much gratification was expressed at the appointment of Miss Havenhill, secretary-treasurer, to a seat on the advisory board of the Women's Institutes. Arrangements were concluded for the Young People's Wild Flower Show on June 2, and an interesting and profitable discussion took place on "The Care of Food in Warm Weather."

Conservatives This Evening.—This evening, at Courtenay, the Conservatives of the Comox-Atlin constituency will hold a convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the next Federal election, and it is probable that the only nomination to be presented to the meeting will be that of Mr. R. H. Clements, the present representative for Comox-Atlin. The old riding has been divided into Comox-Alberni district in the south, and Skeena district in the north, and Mr. Clements has already been asked by the Conservative Associations of many of the southern centres to stand for election in the Comox-Alberni district.

Determined Suicide.—John Long, a Chinese guest at the Panama Hotel, committed suicide in a determined manner on Sunday evening in his room at the hotel, when he looped a thin rope about his neck and then tying the ends to the top of the bedstead slid down into the tub until the loop was wound so tightly about his neck that he was strangled. Employees of the hotel discovered him lying dead on the bed and immediately notified the police. The body was taken to the undertaking establishment of the B. C. Funeral Furnishing Company. An inquest will be held. Beyond the fact that the man came from Vancouver little or nothing is known of him.

West Meetings.—The semi-annual meetings of the five Conservative ward associations will commence this week. Thursday evening Ward Six Conservative Association, will open the series with their meeting, after which the other four wards will hold theirs. The reports of the various wards will be submitted to the meetings, and an account of the work will be laid before them for consideration and adoption. The wards will be asked to ratify the selection of delegates to the nominating conventions, and when the business is over addresses will be given by Mr. G. H. Barnard, K. C., who will deal with the business transacted during the past session of Parliament, Conservative resident in Ward 5 are invited.

Wish to Remain.—Mr. H. H. Loveen, Jr., acting on behalf of the Red Cliff Gold & Lumber Company, has written a letter against Alva von Alvensleben, Limited (in Liquidation), the Vancouver Timber & Trading Company, the Quadra, Stein, the North Coast Timber Company, and the Comptoir Français-Canadien Corporation, asking for a meeting of the creditors of the above companies to consider the matter of appointment of liquidators. Mr. Loveen has written to the Official Receiver and asked ELLIS notice of meeting be given to Messrs. Lawrence and Company, Victoria, Vancouver and Toronto, solicitors for the Red Cliff Company, and to Messrs. Bodwell, Lennie & Co., solicitors for the estate of the bank.

COUNCIL OF WOMEN DEALS WITH MEAT INSPECTION

Establishment of Public Abattoir Advocated—Need of Municipal Milk Depot

Miss Crease presided at a small meeting of the Local Council of Women, held yesterday afternoon in the Y. W. C. A. A long communication was read from the secretary of the National Council telling of a meeting of policewomen to be held at the National Conference of Charities and Correction at Baltimore, May 12. Miss Stubbs Ellis, the first policewoman in America, was the convener of the committee and proposed that there should be an organization. The president considered this matter important as it was the first time there had been such a gathering, but it did not appear that a delegate could be sent from this city. The matter was referred to the committee on social moral standard. A consignment of year books was received from a society that reports more than a year old had lost most of their interest.

A letter from the Anti-Tuberculosis Society requesting exhibition was read. The request was complied with, the president expressing gratification at the return of the society to the council. Later in the afternoon Miss Harrington asked the council's assistance in procuring the detention of all houses after a tenant left. She explained that there was a method of spreading the infection of tuberculosis more dangerous than by the walls and floors of a house. It was a tubercular patient had lived. Unless all houses were disinfected it would be difficult to ensure that of those in which consumptives had lived. The president admitted the need of such a measure, but saw difficulties in the way. On motion of Mrs. Gordon it was resolved to take the matter up at the beginning of the new meeting. A communication from the council of Westminster asked the support of the Victoria council to a resolution to be submitted in the city of Westminster authorities asking that no intoxicating drinks be sold in that city after 6 o'clock during the war. In bringing this matter before the meeting Miss Crease said that while voluntary abstinence was the better way, it was for the meeting to decide whether women should refuse their support to any movement that would prevent drinking during war time. The example of the King and Lord Kitchener in Great Britain was one for individuals to follow. After a discussion, in which Mrs. W. J. Roper, Miss Lowndes, Mrs. Rush Phillips, Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. McPhillips and others took part, it was resolved to give the support asked for.

A discussion took place on the advisability of asking the authorities to take steps to prevent a repetition of the rioting of the past two nights. It was finally decided that, as steps were being taken to prevent further trouble, it would be wiser to refrain from protest.

Mrs. Savary brought in a resolution against the proposed change from Friday to Saturday in the public market. The speaker said she had heard many protests both from town and country. A lively discussion ensued, showing much difference of opinion. Mrs. Savary finally withdrew her resolution till further inquiry had been made or the matter been put to the test of experience.

Mrs. Gordon brought before the council the matter of meat inspection. There was need of a public abattoir and efficient inspection. The former should be a civic undertaking. The matter had been brought to Mrs. Gordon's notice by the report that the meat of cattle which had been offered for sale. Inquiry had led to the discovery that in Victoria there was no system of cutting up cattle suffering for sale of diseased meat. There was an inspection at the B. C. Packers' abattoir in Vancouver. Miss Lawson explained that the carcasses of condemned herds were carefully examined by the Government veterinary surgeons and only such meat released from from disease allowed to be placed on the market. All other remains were used for other purposes. This was, however, the only official examination in Victoria. It was resolved that further inquiry should be made by the Household League and Mrs. Gordon. The meeting adjourned after the president had announced that the regular meeting was always held on the second Monday of each month.

ALDERMAN TODD'S MOTION DEFEATED

Council Declined to Express Opinion on Dominion Election—Reference Made to Recent Disturbances.

Alderman Todd's resolution proposing that the City Council express disapproval of a Dominion election at the present time was introduced at last evening's meeting, but did not carry. There was little discussion, apart from a short address by Alderman Sargent, who, after laying a foundation for his observations by recommending that Alderman Todd confine his attention to his duties as a police commissioner and an alderman, took advantage of the opportunity to make some strong references to the recent local disturbances. Alderman Todd, who pointed out at the start that he had provided that one adverse vote should veto the resolution, because he believed it should be unanimous to be effective, expressed his regret that it had caused such feeling, and refrained from saying anything further at the time.

Immediately after the subject was submitted, Alderman Dilworth asked Mayor Stewart for a ruling.

The Mayor said that the motion was in order. His personal opinion, however, was that it had a tendency to mix Dominion and Provincial politics with municipal affairs, which he thought very inadvisable.

Alderman Dilworth asserted that the moment it came up it introduced politics.

As there were several aldermen with strong party feeling, Alderman Okell thought the resolution injudicious. It would result in a discussion which would be regrettable.

Alderman Todd took exception to Alderman Okell's action in not having given him (the mover) the first opportunity of discussing and explaining the resolution. It was not a political matter. He would be the last to introduce politics into municipal affairs. At the present time he thought such a resolution was in order and that it was opportune. In order to avoid any controversial debate on it, he had taken the precaution of providing that, unless the feeling was unanimous, the resolution should be considered defeated.

"As a private citizen," Alderman Porter said, "I would have no objection to lending my name to any such proposal, but I do not think it should come from the municipality."

Alderman Sargent strongly opposed the resolution. He suggested that Premier Borden might be depended on to attend to his duties, and that the alderman, who was a police commissioner, might do the same. The present state of affairs in the city, he declared, dated back to a year ago last January, when it had been agreed that the Lord's Day Act should not be enforced. He felt at the time that this was giving a loose rein to lawlessness. His opinion, also, was that if certain proposals which it was suggested be laid before the Provincial Government, and to which Alderman Todd would not lend his name, had been acted upon, the Blanshard Hotel bar would not have been open last Saturday night, and the subsequent disturbances would not have occurred.

Mayor Stewart at this point called the speaker to order.

The resolution was put and lost.

Market Improvements

Building Inspector Northcott submitted an estimate of the cost of putting the market premises in first class repair. He reported that there was available for market purposes the present structure, and a considerable additional area if the jail were taken away. If the institution continued to be a success, as there was every indication, his recommendation was that the entire building be devoted to it. To make the necessary interior alterations would cost about $6,935, and to do outside work needed would involve an expenditure of slightly in excess of $7,000. He enclosed a sketch plan of what was proposed. Should this be followed, he thought that Victoria would have a thoroughly modern and up-to-date market, sanitary and attractive.

The report was referred to the market committee.

Belton Street property owners objected to being charged in their local improvement assessments with the construction of retaining walls of which only a few received the benefit.

Mr. Thomas Tubman and others petitioned against the construction of a permanent sidewalk along the east side of Cook Street between Pemberton Road and Bay Street. Their contention was that it would not be such an improvement to their respective holdings as to warrant the extra taxes.

Documents giving the City a year's lease, with the option of purchase, on the properties required in connection with the construction of the Johnson Street bridge, were presented, and, on Alderman Okell's suggestion, were left in the Mayor's hands with power to affix his signature and the corporate seal of the city.

Commissioner Cuthbert's report on his trip to the Panama-Pacific Exposition, and the arrangements he has made for publicity for Victoria was received.

IN OPTIMISTIC VEIN

Mr. J. C. Pendray Reports That Business Is Improving Throughout Provincial Interior

Mr. J. C. Pendray, manager of Messrs. W. J. Pendray & Sons, has just returned to the city after a three weeks' trip through the Okanagan Valley, Boundary Country and the Kootenay.

Speaking of trade conditions up country Mr. Pendray stated that business in the Okanagan Valley is quiet, but from one end of the Valley to the other crop conditions are excellent, and if fair prices can be realized for the fruit this district will soon be in a prosperous condition.

At some points in the Boundary country business is very good. At Phoenix the mines are working full blast, the smelter at Grand Forks is working full time. During Mr. Pendray's stay at Grand Forks they had two days of steady rain. The rain came in good time and was worth thousands of dollars to the district.

At Rossland the mines are working full time. New men are being put on as fast as room can be made for them.

The big smelter at Trail is running full blast. Large additions to the plant are in course of erection. There is not an empty house in Trail. New houses are springing up in all directions, and they are all spoken for as soon as the buildings are started.

The local jobbers and manufacturers should pay special attention to these mining districts, Mr. Pendray says, as the prospects are for continued high prices for almost all kinds of metals.

MILITARY NOTES

Vancouver Battalion Leaves for England This Week—Concentration Camp Ready in Fortnight

The 29th Battalion, commanded by Col. Tobin, of Vancouver, will leave for England this week. Col. Ogilvie, the D. O. C., is the authority for this statement. He would not give the date of departure, but asserts that it was definitely assured that the Mainland corps, which was mobilized at the same time as the 30th Battalion, of Victoria, which has been in the Old Country for some time, would be despatched to a point near the scene of military activity at an early date.

The district officer commanding, with Captain Russell, of the engineering corps, spent some time at the newly-selected concentration camp, which is situated about a mile from Vernon. He states that the country chosen is quite satisfactory and that troops will be moved there in about two weeks. The date mentioned is May 24, but this is not final. The D. O. C. could not say just what units would be assembled at Vernon, but cited the 47th Battalion, of New Westminster; the 54th of the Kootenays, and the 48th, of Victoria, providing the latter has not already been sent to England. If the local troops were to go it would mean that the recruiting of another local force would probably be undertaken.

No further news has been received with respect to the proposed movement of the 2nd C. M. R. to Sewell, Manitoba.

Mr. Alex. Lucas, M. P. P., Institutes Action Against Members of Ministerial Union, Claiming Damages for Libel.

Mr. Alex. Lucas, M. P. P., of Vancouver, who represents the constituency of Yale, has issued a writ against the Ministerial Union of the Lower Mainland, publishers of a pamphlet called The Crisis, and Rev. N. A. Harkness, Rev. A. E. Cooke, Rev. R. F. Stillman, Rev. J. S. Henderson, Rev. W. S. A. Crux and Rev. A. N. O'Donnell, executive committee of the union.

Mr. Lucas is asking for unstated damages, alleging that the defendants falsely and maliciously caused to be published the pamphlet complained of, as follows:

"In this particular instance there can be no excuse for such a report from the commission, since Commissioner Alex. Lucas, M. L. A., was formerly Provincial assessor for the Nelson district until compelled to resign by the Civil Service Commission in December, 1909, on account of neglect of his duties and a timber deal by which he pocketed about $10,000. He had left his post and journeyed to Vancouver, in spite of repeated refusals of leave of absence to put through the deal."

This paragraph, Mr. Lucas claims, refers to himself when he was employed as travelling assessor for the districts of East and West Kootenay and Boundary, and he alleges that it was intended to convey the impression that his connection with the timber transaction was improper and discreditable, and that it caused him to resign the position.

Mr. Lucas states that in 1909, prior to the time of the Civil Service Commission, he tended his resignation to Premier McBride, as he desired to make his abode at Vancouver with his family, but that at the solicitation of Sir Richard, he remained in the office until the close of the year, when he received a letter expressing high appreciation of his work. He claims that the timber transaction referred to had nothing to do with his leaving the office.

The issue of the writ followed an intimation by Mr. Lucas to the reverend gentlemen that he would give them until May 5 to retract the statement. Mr. C. M. Woodsworth was instructed to accept service for them.

Orchestral Concert—An orchestral concert will be held in Christ Church Cathedral schoolroom on Monday next, at 8:30 p.m. The items will include selections by Miss Ethel Lawson's String Orchestra, and some very dainty dancing by Mrs. Michael Hallward's little pupils. Mrs. Osler, Mr Musgrave, and others have promised to sing. The full programmes will be printed later. The proceeds of the concert will be devoted to St. Matthias' Mission, Fort Hay. Tickets may be bought at Mowbray Hall, 989 Fort Street.

Social Service Commission, Deprecating Recent Riots, Urges City Authorities to Enforce Respect for Law.

The rioting of Saturday and Sunday evenings formed the chief topic of discussion at the regular meeting of the Social Service Commission, held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. The following resolution was unanimously passed, a copy of which will be forwarded to the civic authorities:

"That the Social Service Commission, while recognizing the great provocation to our people constituted by the sinking of the Lusitania with the destruction of non-combatant men, women and children, regrets any steps outside the normal course of the law, expresses its hope that citizens will refuse to lower British ideals of chivalry and fairplay by any resort to riot or persecution, and calls upon the civic authorities to use every reasonable means to enforce respect for law and order."

It was also resolved that, in view of the wide dissemination of statements as to the provocative action of German residents in this city, the Social Service Commission requests the authorities to make a full investigation into the foundation of such statements and take such action as shall be necessary.

The Commission had under consideration the question of the closing of the bars and heartily endorsed the action of the authorities in the matter. An effort will be made to secure an extension of the period during which the sale of liquor shall be prohibited.

Mr. Wilkins, after devoting so many years of his life to hard work, retired several years ago, and until his death, spent his days at his family residence, 936 Fisgard Street. He was seventy-six years of age.

He is survived by a widow, one daughter, Mrs. Oxendale, and one grandson, all residing in this city. Five sisters in various parts of the world are living.

BY MARIA LAWSON

LADY VICTORIA PRIMROSE

Just Away

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away!

With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.

And you, oh, you, who the wildest yearn
For the old-time step and the glad return.

Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of there as the love of here;

And loyal still, as he gave the blows
Of his warrior strength to his country's foes;

Mild and gentle as he was brave—
When the sweetest love of his life he gave

To simple things: Where the violets grew
Pure as the eyes they were likened to.

The touches of his hand have stayed
As reverently as his lips have prayed.

Where the little brown thrush that harshly chirred
Was dear to him, as the mocking bird.

And he pitied as much as a man in pain
A writhing honey bee wet with rain.

Think of him as the same, I say,
He is not dead; he is just away!

—James Whitcomb Riley.

A Noble Bride

There were few signs of war time at the wedding of Lady Victoria Stanley, the daughter of Lord Derby, and Hon. Neil Primrose, which took place at the beginning of April. The bride belongs to one of the noblest families of Great Britain. The Stanleys have been celebrated in English history for many centuries and the part they have played has been a great one. The bridegroom is the younger son of Lord Rosebery, formerly Prime Minister, and one of the most brilliant men in Great Britain. The wedding was attended by the Queen, the Princess Mary and Queen Alexandra, as well as by many other members of the royal family. Statesmen of both parties and their wives attended at St. Margaret's Church, Westminster, where the Bishop of Liverpool, assisted by the Rev. Geoffrey Ford, performed the ceremony.

The beautiful gowns of the guests and the relatives of the couple must have afforded employment for many hands, and it is more than probable this was one of the reasons why a public wedding was held. There were no further festivities. Hon. Neil Primrose is Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and it is not a time when such an official can be long spared from his post.

The union of the great houses of Stanley and Primrose is an event of importance in Great Britain, even in these days of sadness and gloom.

Our Public Hospital

There are sick people in Victoria. This is a fact, which in the excitement of the time some of us are in danger of forgetting. Owing to the depression in business and the consequences of the war, a stop has been put to the building of the new public hospital of which Victoria is greatly in need.

This is all the more reason why everything possible shall be done to equip the present Jubilee Hospital with everything necessary for the comfort of the patients. The proportion of free patients is larger than usual and though a civic grant is made for these it is not enough to cover all expenses. The Women's Auxiliary of the hospital supplies all the bed and table linen, chinaware and a dozen other things that come naturally within the province of women. The building being crowded does not make the need of these things less. Indeed, it is all the more necessary that everything in the old building should be as clean and as nice as it is possible to have it.

It must be remembered that there is a tuberculosis ward in connection with the hospital. This increases the need for supplies of bedclothing of all kinds.

The ladies rely on their membership fees to give them a regular income. There are not many housekeepers who could not, if they tried, spare the $2 which constitutes a woman a member of this hospital society. Those who give this sum will understand that they are helping to make patients more comfortable and to lessen suffering.

The canvassers are soon to undertake to collect from the women of Victoria. It is to be hoped that they will consider that the sick in their own city have a claim upon them which should not be overlooked. There are not a few who give liberally to the cause of the hospital. Their donations were never more needed than they are this year. But this does not make it less necessary that a large proportion of the women of our city should regularly contribute the small sums. Of one thing every woman may feel sure. Every cent will be expended to the best advantage, and all that is placed in the hospital stores will be used with the greatest care.

Our Queen

The people of the Empire are growing to love Queen Mary. In the prosperous years since the ascension of King George V., there was an undercurrent of feeling that Queen Mary was too serious minded, not so say, puritanical. She had not enough sympathy with the ways and the amusements of the great ladies of the court. She spent too much time in sewing for the poor and in other pursuits not befitting a queen, though laudable enough in the wife of a clergyman or a country squire.

But now, in our time of trouble, Mary of England is proving herself the leader of the women of the whole Empire. She is showing us how to act in the face of danger, quietly but effectually. The women, not of Great Britain only, but in every corner of the Overseas Dominions, are following the example she is setting. Ordinary pursuits are forgotten, prejudices laid aside and, forgetting all but the duty of women to serve their country and mankind, women of every station are filling the hospitals with nurses and stores, are aiding the poor and giving work to the distressed, and have implemented materially the military stores.

Those who have been in touch with the Queen are not surprised to find that she sympathizes with people of all classes or that she is a loyal Englishwoman.

Mr. Gardiner, who has written a character sketch of King George, has this to say about Queen Mary:

"The Queen, like her husband, has the middle-class seriousness and sense of duty. She is almost the only woman in society who cannot be called 'a society woman.' Her manner is entirely free from the assertiveness which is the note of modern breeding. She speaks little and without persiflage, irony or any of the qualities most cultivated in drawing-rooms. The mother who, hearing the King speak, regretted that she had sent her daughter to an expensive boarding school to catch the authentic note of the aristocracy, when after all, the King himself spoke, 'just like an ordinary man,' would have suffered a double measure of regret if she had heard the quiet unaffected speech of the Queen. She was trained in an old tradition of womanhood, and has the air and interests of the mid-Victorian time rather than those of today. When with the present Bishop of Birmingham I had the duty of showing her round the Sweating Exhibition held at the Queen's Hall some years ago, I was impressed by the quiet thoroughness of her inquiry. She had obviously not come to see or to make a show, but to learn a lesson, and one could not fail to notice her plain sincerity, and her avoidance of those futile affectations of sympathy which are at once so banal and so popular. She left a clear impression of a real woman, with a grave bearing and no false sentiment. When she pats an orphan on the head or gives sixpence to a beggar I do not think she would want half a column of laudation in the newspapers to commemorate the fact that she shares the common sympathies of humanity.

"The influence of her steady, prosaic personality upon the King has been eminently good, and the happiness of their home life is a commonplace. Perhaps the Court is less gay than it used to be, for the Queen prefers knitting to ceremony, and the King likes a book better than bridge, and his children better than either. When one of the boys was asked whether he loved his mother or father the more, he replied, 'Well, Dada spoils me most.' But what the Court has lost in gaiety it has gained in many more substantial ways, not least in the matter of public respect. It was the home life of King George III. which made him possible in spite of his mischievous policy. There was a certain truth in the saying of the wit that 'the people would never desert him so long as he went to church every Sunday and was faithful to the plainest woman in the kingdom.' King George's attachment to his home is not the least of his assets in his account with his people."

BALLAD SINGER WINS APPROVAL AT PANTAGES

"Oklahoma Bob" Albright Always Accompanies Himself on Guitar and Sings Cowboy Songs

"Oklahoma Bob" Albright is one of the leaders in the Pantages show this week, and at yesterday's first performance of the new bill he established himself at once as a popular favorite. There is no doubt, that he is the possessor of a wonderful voice and somewhat resembles Chauncey Olcott in his style; though Bob's character—and they are legion—mostly over that the boy from Oklahoma is to a claim by himself. He is certainly one of the most entertaining and entertaining heard in the city for some time.

Another big feature of the bill this week is the appearance here of Cora Youngblood Corson's company of "Girls From the Golden West," whose instrumental act is one of the finest of the kind of the circuit. The young ladies are all talented musicians and appear to be able to play on any known style of instrument. Miss Corson herself is a wonderfully talented soloist, and plays a large number of instruments not usually carried in orchestras.

A bright little skit on the fall is "Nursing a Husband," which is well acted by Charles Wayne and Company, and which was yesterday productive of much laughter. One of the features of the turn is a fine bit of dancing by Mr. Wayne and Miss Wilkins.

A new line of patter is carried by Holden and Harron, a pair of singers and funmakers, who put the audience into good humor by making jokes at their expense. The show is opened by Kennedy and Mack, a pair of serenaders, who are well above the average in this particular line.

SEVEN SURVIVORS IN VICTORIA PARTY

Cablegram From Cunard Company Confirms Report of Those Saved From Liner Lusitania.

As far as can be ascertained up to the present time seven of the Victoria passengers who were aboard the Lusitania when she was torpedoed and sunk off the Irish Coast are among the survivors. Those known to have been rescued are Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Wickings-Smith and infant, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas K. Turpin, Miss B. Barbour and Mr. Robert W. Whaley. Despite numerous cable inquiries, nothing has been heard of the others, who include Lieut. James Dunsmuir, Mr. B. G. Wickings-Smith, Mr. C. H. Weir and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Stokes and son. In reply to a cabled inquiry made by Mr. Claude Solly, the Cunard Line replied last evening as follows: "Regret no report as to safety of Messrs. C. H. Weir and B. G. Wickings-Smith. No report on Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Stokes and Master Stokes." The wire stated further that inquiries had been made for seven of the latter name, although it was understood that the Victoria party numbered three.

Confirmation was contained in the cable of the safety of Miss B. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Turpin and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Wickings-Smith and infant, and information was received previously of the safety of Mr. R. W. Whaley. Friends of those not reported, however, have not yet given up hope. Miss Barbour, who was returning to her home after residing in Victoria for seven years with her brother-in-law, Mr. Robert Moffat, chief engineer of the C. P. R. steamer Princess Mary, has reached Glasgow, her destination, according to news which reached here yesterday. Absence of news of Mr. and Mrs. Stokes and their little boy, who were well-known in Victoria, is causing much sorrow here.

NEW STEAMSHIP MAY SOON ENTER SERVICE

Makura Brought Word That War May Not Indefinitely Postpone Completion of Sister Ship to Niagara.

The war may not indefinitely postpone the completion of the new passenger and freight steamship under construction in British shipyards for the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, according to word brought by the liner Makura.

The new vessel, which is at least 200 tons larger than the Niagara, was laid down months before the beginning of hostilities. It was rushed along to a point where it had been launched, and the finishing touches to the deckhouses and cabins were well under way when all work was temporarily suspended.

The new liner will bear a Maori name. It will use oil for fuel and possess a speed equal to if not greater than the Niagara. Its completion will probably result in the retirement of the liner Makura from the Sydney-Auckland, Suva-Honolulu and Victoria service. Hereafter two steamers are expected to maintain the transpacific schedule between Australia and British Columbia.

A much shorter lay-over at Vancouver and Sydney has followed the elimination of the steamship Marama, which was the third vessel in the Canadian-Australian fleet.

Only six days on either side are allowed the two vessels at present operating in the service. The Makura has even less time in which to discharge and load than the Niagara, which is an oil-burner, and consequently does not have to make the trip to the Comox mines for fuel. The Makura is now about to proceed to the Vancouver Island mines to replenish her bunkers, which operation will be rushed to allow the steamer to return to the mainland port to load for the outward voyage to Australia.

Next Wednesday is the date set for the departure of the Makura from this port for Sydney via Auckland.

CROWN OF NAVARRE NEARS DESTINATION

Capt. Kelly Inspected Harrison Vessel While at San Francisco—Carried French Exhibits for Fair.

Coincident with the torpedoing of the vessels of the same fleet, the Harrison-Direct carrier Crown of Navarre, Captain Baird, reached San Francisco on Friday last from Liverpool en route to Victoria. Word of the vessel's presence at the Golden Gate was brought here by Captain Kelly, port captain for Messrs. R. P. Rithet & Co., who arrived in Victoria yesterday aboard the liner President, after spending a short vacation in California. The Crown of Navarre has a large general cargo for San Francisco, and it is not expected that she will be in a position to clear from the Golden Gate for Victoria before tomorrow, bringing her here toward the end of the week.

The Harrison steamship was thirty-two days out from Liverpool, via the French port of La Pallice.

Upon arrival the officers and crew of the Crown of Navarre were shocked to hear the news that the steamers Candidate and Centurion had been sunk near Waterford by a German submarine. At the time the Crown of Navarre left England there was a report that German submarines were lurking off the coast, but the vessel fortunately did not fall in with them.

Included in the Crown of Navarre's cargo were 942 cases of exhibits for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. These were shipped by personal exhibitors from La Pallice and contain tapestries, paintings and sculpture.

The Navarre is under the command of Captain Baird, who will be remembered as the skipper who was last here with the steamer Crown of Toledo.

Cable advices from Liverpool state that the British ship Owenee has arrived there 134 days out from the Columbia River, with a cargo of 32,482 centals of wheat, valued at $166,546.

ADVANCE DUE IN WAR INSURANCE

Underwriters' Agents Claim That Sinking of Liner Lusitania Is Bound to Affect the Rates.

War risk quotations for insurance of cargoes and ships from all ports on the Pacific Coast will be markedly increased, according to a consensus of opinion among marine insurance men. It is the unanimous assertion that a high premium will be charged exporters as a direct result of the sinking of the Lusitania. Marine insurance experts say that the renewed operations of submarines is certain to make shippers more cautious in their operations, and add to the difficulties of underwriters of ships taking cargoes to the war zone.

In round figures, the Lusitania was valued at $10,000,000, and insurance on the vessel, it is said, amounted to $7,000,000, the worth of her cargo being reckoned at $735,000. It is understood that the line paid a premium of 2 per cent on the amount of insurance carried, and a special war risk of 1½ per cent for each trip. The line carried one-third of the insurance, the remainder being divided between Lloyd's and other underwriters. About half the insurance on the cargo was taken by local underwriters and the rest by Lloyd's.

Influenced by the theory that the Lusitania was too fast to be caught by a torpedo, the cargo rate was 1 per cent, a much lower rate than the transatlantic rate customary at the present time.

CHINESE EAGER TO RETURN TO ORIENT

Rush of Bookings by the Blue Funnel Liner Ixion and Many Are Unable to Secure Accommodation.

Owing to some delay experienced on Puget Sound in completing her outward cargo, the Blue Funnel liner Ixion, which was scheduled to leave Victoria yesterday for ports in the Far East, will not get away from the Outer Docks until tomorrow morning. H. B. Davenport, local manager for Dodwell & Co., has been advised that the Ixion will arrive here from Seattle at an early hour tomorrow to embark steerage passengers, and it is expected that she will sail about noon on Wednesday for Yokohama and Hong Kong. The number of Chinese booked to sail from Victoria for the Orient is placed at 190.

It is not apparent that the present relations existing between Japan and China are affecting the Chinese travel across the Pacific, the demand for bookings at the present time being greater than the transpacific lines can conveniently handle on the steamers available. At least fifty bookings have had to be refused for the sailing of the Ixion owing to lack of space. The Ixion is taking out a capacity cargo of approximately 15,000 tons.

The Blue Funnel transpacific liner Talthybius, which is now discharging inward cargo on Puget Sound, is expected to return to Victoria about Thursday, according to a statement made yesterday by an official of Dodwell & Co., The Talthybius touched here on Saturday from Yokohama and is to return from the Sound to put off several hundred tons of Oriental cargo, before shifting to Vancouver to complete. No word has yet been received by the agents regarding the arrival of the British steamer Calchas, one of the Panama liners maintained by the Blue Funnel Line. She is scheduled to arrive here on Friday next from Liverpool via Kingston and San Francisco.

PREPARES FOR SERVICE

Steamer City of Puebla Undergoes Annual Inspection and May Fly Here Soon

The American steamer, City of Puebla, of the Pacific Coast fleet, has undergone her annual inspection. The directors of the company have not yet decided what run the City of Puebla and the Umatilla will be placed on within the next month.

One, or even both, of these vessels are likely to be seen in the San Francisco service before long.

AGGI IS TOTAL LOSS

President Brings Word That Wrecked Norwegian Sailer Is Rapidly Breaking Up

The Norwegian ship Aggi, which drove ashore on Santa Rosa Island during the recent gale, will be a total loss, according to news brought north by the liner President.

It is stated that the main and mizzen masts have fallen and that the windjammer is breaking up rapidly.

The Aggi was laden with a cargo of barley for the United Kingdom, and was in tow of the steamer Edgar H. Vance, when caught by the storm.

RUPERT SAILS NORTH

Taking her regular sailing for Prince Rupert and Anyox, the G. T. P. steamer Prince Rupert, Captain Duncan McKenzie, sailed from this port yesterday morning, via Vancouver. Among the passengers embarking aboard the vessel here were: Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Moon, Mrs. Walker and child, Mr. F. T. Williams, and Mr. F. T. Barnes.

The sister ship, Prince George, Captain D. Donald, is due to arrive here tomorrow from Prince Rupert, and will take the mid-week Northern sailing from here on Thursday.

CALLING FAITHFUL TO FIGHT A HOLY WAR

How the German Consul at Smyrna Led Native Moslems Astray Vividly Narrated—Day of Fatal Omen.

A correspondent to The London Times from Smyrna writes:

"The omen came on a Friday, just at noon, when practically half the city and its inhabitants were massed for a grand demonstration or rally round the broad marble steps of the Government House. The day was stormy and blustering, but just then there was a tremendous lull, and the great Turkish flag hung wet and limp on its massive flagstaff over the Seraya or Government House. Crowds filled the large open square, entirely stopping all traffic. On the left the steps leading up into the barracks were one mass of white turbans and red "tarbushes." The slanting roofs of the rows of shops were covered with veiled women, in imminent danger of sliding off and distributing the tarbushes below. Strings of camels—strings no longer, but unwieldy grouped—stood patiently waiting at the outskirts of the crowd, while their drivers, astride minute donkeys (toes making tracks in the dust) gazed open-mouthed and awe-struck at the brilliant scene on the Seraya steps.

What a scene it was! History repeating itself, for this was a vivid reproduction of Hebrew lore—the ignorant lamb, Turkey laid on the altar of sacrifice to get Germany out of the difficulty in which her sins had placed her. German and Turkish flags—German predominating—flanked the marble steps in a truly sincere, patriotic manner. German and Turkish officials stood grouped under the flags in sincerely true, brotherly attitudes.

At the top—the culmination of all as it were—stood a noble company. The German Consul, his havass, the Austrian Consul (trying to retire into the background), and his havass, more German officials (hotel-keepers, hoteliers or farmers, originally), and other head managers of the display. In the centre stood the "Sacrifice," a group composed of the great Turkish Commander of the city, an ignorant, brutally impulsive, fat youth, well under thirty, with his private officials, the Mufti, some shaykhs, and other religious dignitaries, all in a solemn row across the landing at the top.

The Mufti and the shaykhs were studiously delivering impromptu speeches of loyalty to the Sultan, to their country, to their religion—above all to Germany, "our faithful ally," said the Sacrifice—"our ally that has adopted our religion—that has risen to renown in from the reckless hands of the dastard English." (Shame! Shame! The German face waxed, the Turkish face flushed)

"And now the English are trying to wipe out Islamism. Read the German papers and see what horrors she is perpetrating in Egypt and India upon our Mahomedan brothers! Our holy days they cannot keep, our mosques are in constant danger of being torn down. Our allies inform us that in India these infidels actually destroyed a mosque in order to make a road on the site! Sacred ground—oh, sons of Mahomet! to be trampled by countless unhallowed feet!" (Here a responsive growl from the audience, accompanied by vehement expletives.)

"To the Jehad! O Moslem brethren! By the order of our Sultan." (Prolonged cheers of "Allah yenirhoo-o-o.")

"To the Jehad—the Holy war. Let us wipe out the infidel English, French and Russians. Let us break their power!"—and something did break, for with a sickening crash the massive flagstaff over the Seraya snapped in two and the great limp ensign came hurtling down into the very midst of the horrified crowd.

Dead silence ensued for a moment, but it suddenly broke into a loud muttering and reiterating of incantations for the warding off of evil—"Khaia-la-sha-Allah," "Our enemy's flag, but curse! God cast it to the enemy!" etc.

An immediate and orderly dispersing of the crowd followed—the veiled women, wringing their hands, scrambled down off the slanting roofs and disappeared in gesticulating groups, men shaking their heads and scowling on the few Christians' who had to be present (in order to appear patriotic) merged off, breathing curses on the infidels and threatening emphatically to eat their throats some day.

This incident was related a few days later to a sceptical, rather disheartened English prisoner there. "Oh it's nothing," he said, "the old stuff must have been rotten for years." "That's it exactly," I said, "so is the Turkish Government—the cause in contrast to young Ireland."

And so it was, for we heard afterwards that just about on that very day the Empire forces had occupied Basrah.

USE COCOANUT OIL FOR WASHING HAIR

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, the less soap you use the better.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

REPORTS ON COPPER REFINING IN CANADA

Special Committee of the Victoria Board of Trade Sends a Voluminous Document to Colonel Carnegie.

The Board of Trade has forwarded to Colonel Carnegie the report which its mining committee had prepared on the subject of copper refining in Canada. The report is a voluminous document running to twenty pages, and is signed by William Blakemore, chairman; H. B. Thomson, M. P. P., and A. C. Burdick.

The first page of the report consists of replies to specific questions submitted by the commission—Colonel Carnegie, Dr. Wilson and Professor Stansfield—whom visited Victoria a few weeks ago. The latter portion consists of a number of appendices giving data on several important branches of copper refining, including the cost of erecting a refinery, the cost of refining, the outlay necessary to establish a battery of by-product coking ovens, and the probable range and value of the by-products.

The questions submitted by the commission were of a very comprehensive character, and in reply the Board of Trade sets forth that the production of copper in British Columbia is about 4,000,000 pounds per month, the chief producers being the Granby Company at Grand Forks and Anyox, and the Britannia Mining & Smelting Company. These account for three-fourths of the production.

Urges Coast Refining

In view of the fact that the bulk of the copper is produced at the Coast the report urges that the refinery should be established there. It states that the transportation facilities offered surpass those of any point in the Interior, and in addition to the exceptional facilities of water transportation, so greatly enhanced by the opening of the Panama Canal, there are three Canadian transcontinental railways having their terminus on the Pacific.

The report comments on the large number of water powers available for electrolytic refining, and states that in the opinion of experienced engineers this power can be generated for $10 per h. p. per annum, and possibly for $7.50.

The indirect advantage of establishing a refining plant in its influence on secondary industries is dealt with, and the subject of smelting fuel is thoroughly canvassed. The report gives the average cost of producing Vancouver Island coal as $2.50 per ton, and states that this coal furnishes a "good commercial coke." There are, however, proven coal areas on the Mainland of British Columbia, near to the Coast, which contains bituminous coals richer in by-products than those of the Island, and if the recommendation of the committee in the matter of establishing by-product coking-ovens is carried out, it would pay to bring these coals down because the extra cost of freighting would be more than overset by the additional yield in by-products. The result would also be the production of a better metallurgical coke.

'SANDS' FUNERAL PARLORS

Iron and Steel Industry

In another paragraph the report points out the bearing which the establishment of a copper refinery would have on the important question of the smelting of iron ores and the commencement of an iron and steel industry at the Coast. In many respects the two enterprises would run along parallel lines and would be mutually helpful. This is especially true in the matter of consumption of fuel, the development of water powers and the establishment of by-product coking.

With respect to the future supplies of copper ore it is pointed out that in addition to undetermined reserves at the Britannia mines, running to many millions of tons, the mines at Anyox have already proved more than 20,000,000 tons, and the property is only partially exploited.

The subject of fuel oil is considered in its relation to smelting, and it is pointed out that at present large quantities are being used in the Province. The crude oil is brought by water from California, and in the case of large contracts costs 80 cents a barrel. The equivalent value of fuel oil and Vancouver Island coal is in the ratio of 8½ barrels to the ton.

An important section of the report deals with the subject of markets and marketing. There are two natural markets, Canada and England. Of the total production of copper matter in Canada, amounting to 37,500 tons per annum, the whole of which is now exported to the United States for refining, 21,000 tons are re-imported into Canada as copper, in addition to tons of brass. England annually imports a far larger amount of copper than the balance of the Canadian production.

An Important Question

An important question submitted by the commission asks, "How will the United States' copper refineries view the establishment of a refinery in Canada?" On this the report states: "The experience of Canada with the United States would lead us to expect the strongest opposition to such a policy. That opposition could only take the form of under selling, in such markets as Canada would be able to reach, so as to make the trade unprofitable. As the Canadian production is only about 3 per cent of the world production this would be an easy matter, and a consideration of the subject in this aspect suggests that the industry would have to be protected or assisted in a special manner. The committee takes it for granted that this would present no difficulty if copper refining is viewed in the light of National and Imperial policy.

"There is another phase on this question to be considered, viz: The attitude of the copper mining companies now operating in British Columbia. Practically all these companies are American, that is, the capital is held in the United States. Further, they are German-American, and it is conceivable that under certain circumstances they might endeavor either to prevent Canada from reaping the benefit of a local refinery, or to restrict the output of copper ore in order to reduce the supply of copper. It does not seem to this committee that there would be any difficulty in dealing with such a situation if it were created. British Columbia has been able to legislate against the exportation of logs, and if the cases are not exactly parallel there does not seem to be any reason why a similar policy could not be adopted with copper."

The Financial Aspect

In the appendices the two best known systems of copper refining, "The Multiple" and "The Series," are explained. It is pointed out that the smallest economic unit for a copper refinery is approximately 1,000,000 lbs. of copper per annum, and that the cost of refining per ton is $15.16 by "The Multiple" process and $17.14 by "The Series." The cost of erecting and fitting a copper refinery of this capacity would be about $130,000. The cost of erecting a by-product coking plant, consisting of 60 koppes ovens would be approximately $1,100,000, and this would supply 425,000 tons of coke. The saving in by-products would be represented by gas of the value of $170,000; ammonia-sulphate at $191,220, and tar, $59,500; or a combined value of $420,720. This would represent roughly 10 per cent interest on a capital investment of $4,000,000 saved in these by-products alone, not counting coke and other products.

In the year 1914 by-product coke ovens in Canada yielded the following: Ammonia-sulphate, 8,573 tons; tar, 5,714,172 gallons; gas, 3,501,097 cubic feet.

The whole of this valuable material is wasted where beehive ovens only are used, and the establishment of copper smelting and refining at the Coast, in addition to meeting a great Imperial requirement and a commercial necessity, would have an enormous effect in stimulating the coal trade and other industries if it succeeded in substituting by-product coking of coal and so saving the valuable chemical ingredients which are now lost.

The Board of Trade will follow up the recommendations of this comprehensive and interesting report, and will leave no stone unturned to secure the contemplated refinery for the Coast.

According to a scientific writer in The Manchester Guardian, the largest eggs ever laid by the bird family were those of the cepyornis. These particular samples of hen fruit measured a trifle over three feet in length by 30 inches across, but whether the bird only laid them once a month or twice a year is left to the reader's imagination.

Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, and stomach-ache are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. The value of pepsin formulated as one of the best ferments of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and render it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, procurable from any druggist and added to a tumbler of cold water after each heavy meal, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This should be repeated at intervals throughout the day for a few weeks until fermentation, wind and acidity are dangerous and unnecessary. Stop or prevent them by the use of a proper ferment, such as Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist and then make the stomach do its work properly without being hindered by fermenting food and distress.

VERY HEAVY SALE OF "TANGO" TICKETS

First Day's Sale Totalled Upwards of Seventy-Five Thousand—Increased Patronage on Street Railway.

As indicating that the people are quick to respond to opportunities to economize nowadays and, as well, that the innovation just launched by the B. C. Electric is very popular, it was ascertained yesterday that already upwards of 75,000 of the "tango" tickets—eight for twenty-five cents—have been sold. At the outset the company provided a supply of tickets which it was supposed would be ample for two weeks, but the indications are that this supply will be exhausted in four days.

All day yesterday the offices of the company, the conductors on the cars and the various stores and shops about the city which are handling the tickets were besieged by applicants, and the response of the public to the cheap rate is very gratifying to the company. The enormous sale of the "tango" tickets was immediately reflected in the travel on the street cars, which were on all routes very largely patronized, satisfaction being expressed at the augmented service.

Already a very lively interest is being manifested in the competition which the company has originated in connection with the "tango" tickets, the terms and conditions of which are set out in the advertising columns. To remove a misapprehension, it is to be explained that letters in both words—tango ticket—may be used by competitors in making words.

ST. MARK'S HALL

Victoria Branch of Women's Guild Gave Gratifying Assistance to Theological College

The annual meeting of the Corporation of St. Mark's Hall in the Anglican Theological College, 1249 Davie Street, Vancouver, was held on the 5th inst. in the Parish House of St. Paul's Church, Jervis Street, Mr. A. Mc. Creery, Vancouver, Chairman of the corporation presiding. The principal, the Rev. C. A. Seager reported the largest number of students yet enrolled. The number, however, had been sadly, but worthily, reduced by the enlistment of five men in the various contingents training for the front, while a sixth is on his way to England to enlist. The report of the registrar, Rev. W. T. Keeling, showed the intellectual attainments of the students to be excellent, while that of the hon. treasurer and Bursar, Mr. L. H. J. Blundell, showed an increase in subscriptions to the work of the hall and all accounts for the year in good condition. The Women's Guild reported a large cash donation on the result of the year's work through its branches as well as many generous gifts of household supplies. The Victoria branch did especially well, having provided $140 for a bursary for one of the students and having collected nearly enough to complete a second bursary besides having contributed to the general work of the guild.

The meeting was a representative one, members being present from the dioceses of New Westminster, Columbia, Kootenay and Cariboo. Among those present from outside Vancouver were the Bishop of Kootenay, the Ven. Archdeacon of Vancouver, the Rev. Rural Dean Procunier, Revelstoke; the Rev. F. H. Graham, Nelson; Rev. Principal Dawson, Lytton. A feature of the meeting was the large number of new members of the corporation added during the year.

Students volunteering for the front have been granted their respective years. A resolution was passed congratulating the Bishop of Columbia upon his translation to the See of Ottawa and regretting his severance from the Province; and one congratulating Dr. Doull, who, as Dean of Columbia has been a member of the Corporation and Council of the hall since its inception, upon his election to the See of Kootenay.

TWO HOURS OF TRUCE

Captured German Officer Says His Country Is Sick of War and Having an Awful Time

A British officer writes: We had a great show at St. Eloi the other day; you probably read about it in the papers. The Germans mined their position called Mound; there was a terrific explosion, and then opened a heavy artillery fire. They fired for about 30 consecutive hours. I am afraid part of our division was rather roughly handled, but they got back all their trenches bar the Mound, which neither side can occupy now, as they are immediately shelled out of it. The day after the Germans and our troops were walking about picking up the wounded belonging to each other. Rather quaint when a few hours previously they had been fighting like fiends. We took a German officer prisoner, and one of our fellows who speaks German went and talked to him. He said they were having an awful time, and they were all sick of the war. I think this attack was only a diversion, and all the rest of our lines have advanced. We are having lovely Spring weather, much too nice for fighting, and the Spring flowers are popping.

Nothing for Family Use Can Compare With It

RUB ON NERVILINE

When you have been exposed to wet and cold and your muscles are full of pain, nerves are jumping with neuralgia, then you should have ready at hand a bottle of Nerviline. It robs pain of its terrors, gives relief to all suffering, brings ease and comfort wherever used.

No care or expense has been spared to secure for Nerviline the purest and best materials. It is prepared with a single aim; to restore the sick to health. This cannot be said of the preparation that an unscrupulous dealer may ask you to accept instead of Nerviline, so we warn you it is the extra profit made on inferior goods that tempts the substitutor. Of him beware.

Get Nerviline when you ask for it, then you are sure of a remedy that will cure all aches, strains, swellings and the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia and lumbago.

In the last hundred years no liniment has been produced that can compare with Nerviline in strength, in penetrating power, or in curative ability.

For nearly forty years it has been Canada's household remedy, and mothers will do well to follow the advice of Mrs. Jessie Beggins, of Stella P. O., Ont., who says:

"Very frequently there are ailments in the family that can be cut short if Nerviline is handy. When my children come in from play, with a cough or a bad cold, I rub them well with Nerviline, and they are well almost at once. Nerviline is fine for earache, toothache, chest colds, lumbago, stiffness, rheumatism or neuralgia. In fact there is scarcely a pain or ache in man or beast it won't cure quickly."

The large 50c family size bottle is the most economical; trial size 25c; at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

MODERN BOXING IS FAR FROM BRUTAL

Old Hand in the Ring Ascribes Good Health to Fighting—Boxing Rather Brutal Nor Dangerous

An American exchange contains a very powerful argument in praise of the good effects of the sport of boxing from the pen of Eddie Bergan who writes as follows:

"I am 44 years old, have fought over 100 ring battles, most of them finish contests with two-ounce gloves. I have not received in all these contests so much as a broken nose. Today I don't feel a day older than twenty and can do as hard a day's work as any boy that age.

"When I took up boxing in 1888 I weighed ninety-nine pounds, my people thought I was going into consumption. The chances are I was, but in two years after taking my first lesson, I not only gained twenty-five pounds, but was as strong as an ox, full of ambition, could work hard all day, and sleep like a log at night. I know hundreds of other boys who have benefited from boxing not only in health but in wealth.

"In the State of California, where there have been more championship battles fought in the last thirty years than have been decided in all the other States put together, where thousands upon thousands of other contests besides championship contests have been decided, there have been only seven men meet death in the ring. Still the people will say: 'What a brutal game it is.'

"The baseball season has just started in the United States. Five men have met death on the field already, but the people overlook that. On the football field there are many more men killed every year than there have been pugilists killed in the last thirty years. An automobile race would not be exciting unless one or more were killed in a big race.

"I have attended all kinds of athletic games. Boxing is a parlor house game compared with football. Take a look at those two giants, Jess Willard and Jack Johnson, battling twenty-six hard rounds, and at the finish neither one had as much as a black eye. An hour after the battle they were dressed dressed in their best, shaking hands with their friends. And those are the two biggest men that ever faced each other in the ring. Yet the people say that boxing is brutal. Nearly all the young fellows growing up like sparring and it places a chance to keep it away from them because a few who do not understand the game opposed it."

Ted Kaylor's slashing drive down the right field foul line ended a thrilling pitchers' battle at the ball park yesterday, Victoria defeating Seattle 5 to 4 in the first meeting of the season between these clubs. The win was featured by the excellent hurling of Al. Bonner, a former Seattle slab artist, who worked in tip top form for the Maple Leafs. The locals are now securely entrenched in the first division and providing Frank McKenry can win today, they have a very fair chance of landing in first place before the week is out.

A fair sized crowd witnessed the encounter and they were treated to a splendid article of ball. There was just enough hitting to please the fans, while the rousing finish of the locals had the enthusiasts on their toes at the finish. Seattle went into the ninth inning with a one-run lead because of their rally in the eighth session that netted four runs. The local clubbers took the bit between their teeth and three ringing drives, with two batters down, turned defeat into victory. It was a clear case of gameness, and the bleacheritos attempted to carry Kaylor from the field at the windup.

Rose pitched nice ball for Seattle, but he could not keep the ball out of the groove in the final ninth, Kaylor stopped on first, but the hit was good for a triple had it been necessary.

Barth's one-handed clutch of Nye's long foul and a couple of snappy double plays were the fielding features, only one boot being chalked up to Victoria, while Seattle gave Rose faultless support.

Nye, Kaylor and Haworth had a brace of hits for the home club, while Raymond, Killilay and Rose broke into the two-hit column.

Victoria will work Frank McKenry today, while Raymond will likely send Ed. Kelly to the mound. Today is ladies' day, so that with the fair fanettes being admitted free, there should be a bumper crowd on hand. A win for the locals will bring them into second place. The score:

PASSES PRACTICAL TESTS FOR DIPLOMA

Miss Griffin, First Candidate From British Columbia to Try for Royal Life-Saving Society's Diploma

An event of no little interest took place in the Y.M.C.A. swimming tank on Saturday evening, when Miss Margaret Griffin, daughter of Capt. J. D. Griffin, the master of the Princess Charlotte, underwent examination in the practical test for the Royal Life Saving Society's diploma. The event is doubly interesting in view of the fact that this is the first time that this honor has been tried for in British Columbia, and Victorians may be proud of the fact that Miss Griffin passed the very searching tests very satisfactorily.

There are two parts in the examination, practical and theoretical. It is now necessary for Miss Griffin to write for the theoretical examination and the papers will be forwarded to London, England, to be adjudicated on. Success in this branch will assure Miss Griffin the honor of being the first British Columbian to gain the coveted diploma.

The practical examination consisted of a large number of tests as follows: Effecting a rescue at 20 yards distance, undressing on surface of water, which is entered by the candidate fully dressed, swimming continuously for 12 minutes, using the following strokes: breast, back (without arms), and over-arm, diving from the surface for an object, motionless floating for 30 secs., long plunge (Miss Griffin's plunge was 41 feet 6 inches), swimming by means of a propeller for 30 feet, two consecutive forward somersaults, two consecutive backward somersaults, three movements as follows, sculling, torpedo and revolving on surface without use of arms.

The candidate passed all these tests under the examination of Mr. A. Cotter, of Vancouver, who came over especially to conduct the examination, and Mr. C. E. Hopper, of this city.

FURTHER DECLINES IN PRICES OF STOCKS

Sinking of the Lusitania Still Has Influence on Market—Both Voluntary and Forced Liquidation in Evidence.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Another readjustment of values growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania, occurred in the stock market today. Prices in general fell 4 to 5 points, affecting the greater part of the gains made by the rise of the two preceding months. Liquidation, voluntary on the part of the nervous operators, and forced by others whose margins had suffered increased impairment, contributed to the receding movement, which was materially assisted by the short interest and heavy selling for London and the continent.

Sales of stock amounted to 1,235,000 shares, United States Steel, Amalgamated Copper, Reading, and Westinghouse making up almost 33 per cent of the total. The strength of the investment situation was reflected in the sale of the greater part of the $65,000,000 of new Pennsylvania bonds offered by a syndicate, and the inquiry for the $25,000,000 Argentine 5-year notes taken by our bankers. Standard bonds and short time notes were heavy at the start, however, but regained some of their losses later. Total sales of bonds (par value), $5,610,000.

A new low record for Italian exchange was the feature of the market for foreign remittances, and domestic time loans were nominally higher with closer scrutiny of mixed collateral.

Various United States bonds were ¼ to ½ per cent lower on call.

HEROISM OF MEN

Fighting in Forts Made of Sand Bags and Sleeping Through Nights Without Coats

An infantry officer writes:

We were in this big show that started last Wednesday and had rather a hard time—were five days in action. "C" and "D" Companies were given the order to take a part of the enemy's trench, which we did, and captured sixty-three Prussians. We occupied the trench with a Highland regiment on left and an Indian on our right. We built up the parapet the other side when darkness came on, and made it quite bullet-proof. We were working most of the night, so had no sleep. The next day was pretty easy, because the enemy were some way back. That night we again spent in strengthening our position with sandbags. I worked pretty hard up till 2 a. m. and then started again at 4 a. m., working outside filling sandbags.

About 4:30 an engagement started on our left, so we quickly jumped back into the trench and "stood to arms." It was still dark, so fearing an attack we opened fire where we imagined the enemy to be, not being able to see anything. At daybreak we were very surprised to find hasty entrenchments all across our front about forty yards away, when the day before they had been fully 250 yards back—we had never heard them digging in spite of having a listening patrol out every hour. Evidently the enemy started the attack before they were ready to launch it successfully; they came on in masses in one part and our machine-guns and rifles fairly mowed them down. Our boys were all awfully keen and not a bit frightened. I used a rifle and we fairly blazed away. I fired about 200 rounds, and I expect I killed a few, but our machine-guns did most of the execution (this show was all part of that big advance which has been going on lately). The boys were glad to have the chance to get their own back on the Boches for our losses a few days before. We easily repulsed that attack and the native regiment on our right took a few prisoners.

That afternoon our company went in support with two other companies, leaving C Company in the trenches because in our section we were a bit crowded. Being in support trenches just behind the firing line is hateful—worse than in the firing trench. The Indians had failed to capture this section of trench, so we were brought up to do so, at least half our battalion—C and D Companies. We were in a small fort made of sandbags, and after the guns had banged away at the trench for some time we were ordered to charge. Being (pro. tem.) the second in command of D Company, I had to lead the first line of attack. We had to swarm up the parapets of this fort, jump down, and charge over a distance of 150 yards. It's a wonder we ever got there. On our left flank the Boches had two machine guns which opened oblique fire on us, besides the fire from the trenches. I made up my mind that I should be potted—the bullets were hitting all around me. I had one go through my haversack. Of course, we lost a few men, but we got there, which was something, and our men were awfully brave.

Meanwhile the right half of the battalion were engaged in taking a trench; they lost several officers and some men. It surprises me that I was never hit, because I was several yards ahead of my own men nearly all the time and made a good mark, but I carried a rifle and bayonet so as to make myself less conspicuous. We were relieved last night, and marched back to the same billets as we were in before, and jolly glad to be back, because we had a most nerve-racking time, and for the last three nights practically no rest, because we did not have our ground sheets of coats, but just slept in the trenches as best we could.
